FOUR REVISED RESERVATIONS TO TREATY ADOPTED BY COMMITTEE

Proposals Approved by Senate Foreign Relations Body Relate to Article X of League, Monroe Doctrine, Withdrawal and Domestic Questions.

SHIELDS VOTES WITH THE REPUBLICANS

Preamble Providing Pact Shall Not Become Effective Until Three of Principal Allies Agree to Senate Reservations Adopted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Four revised reservations to the peace treaty were adopted today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, with the administration leaders voting solidly against them.

The committee also adopted a preamble to the reservations providing that the treaty should not become effective until three of the principal allies and associated powers had agreed to the Senate's reservations. This, too, was opposed by the administration Senators.

The four reservations approved related to article 10, the Monroe Doctrine, withdrawal and domestic questions. On most of the roll calls the division was 11 to 6, all of the Republicans and Senator Shields, Democrat, Tennessee, voting in the affirmative.

Reservation on Article 10.—The reservation adopted relating to article 10 was identical, except for the transposition of one phrase, with the one which President Wilson announced on his Western trip that he would be obliged "to regard as a rejection of the treaty."

It was the first time that Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, had stood with the other Republicans of the committee for reservations. Republican leaders declared the program of which the four reservations were a part had been agreed to by all the 49 Republican Senators and six Democrats. A number of other reservations remaining on this program will be taken up at another meeting of the committee late today.

The six Democratic members of the committee who opposed the reservations offered substitutes of an interpretative character but they were rejected. Attached to the Article 10 reservation adopted was a specific declaration that the United States would accept no mandatory without authorization by Congress. Later, it was agreed to make this a separate reservation.

During the day the committee took about 10 roll calls during its session of two hours and a half. The only case in which Senator McCumber did not vote with the other Republicans was on the preamble requirement for acceptance of the reservations by the other Powers.

The sudden crystallization of the situation with regard to reservations completely overshadowed in the interest of Senators the losing fight to adopt amendments to the treaty approaching its final stage.

Johnson Amendment.—During the day the subject for debate is the amendment of Senator Johnson, Republican, California, to equalize voting strength in the league of nations, but few Senators have expressed an intention to speak. The leaders thought a roll call on the amendment might be reached late in the day, the general prediction being that it would be defeated.

In the circumstances the administration managers have been told their only hope of defeating the program is to vote against ratification after the reservations have been put into the ratification resolution. Some of the Democrats want to pursue that course.

President Wilson's illness is said to be the big element making for indecision among the Democrats. As chief executive it will be for him to decide whether any reservations adopted really require the reopening of international negotiations, and his supporters do not want to accept anything he would consider in that category.

Church Favors Unity of Nations.

PEARSON AND MANZELMAN IN FIGHT FOR FOURTH IN AIR RACE

Fliers at Cleveland on Way to Minneapolis; Smith Third to End Journey.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The fight for fourth position in the great endurance and reliability airplane race today is the most interesting feature of the twice-transcontinental contest.

Lieut. Earl Manzelman and Capt. Alex Pearson, who spent the night at Cleveland, 503 miles from their goal, plan to reach Minneapolis, N. Y., today. They still have as an added incentive the possible bettering of the actual flying time.

Reported officially, of Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, the "Flying Parson," who was the first to retrace the course across the country; Capt. J. O. Davidson, who followed him to Minneapolis, and Capt. H. H. Smith, first man to complete a San Francisco-to-New York-and-return flight.

Three fliers have completed the 5402-mile flight, eight are on their way to home hangars, and 11 remain at San Francisco with one-half their race completed.

Piloting the marine corps plane in the derby, Lieut. G. B. Newman landed at the Presidio from Minneapolis yesterday.

"OLD CLOTHES LEAGUES" BEING FORMED THROUGHOUT ENGLAND

Economy Move in Which Patches Are Regarded as Badges of Honor.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Fashionable London tailors are having a somewhat perturbed over the reported popularity of a clothes conservation "movement" hailing from the United States which is being enthusiastically acclaimed by Englishmen weary of long-continued high clothing costs.

Over here the "movement" has manifested itself in the organization of "Old Clothes League"—societies with the single-pledge slogan—"No More New Clothes Until Prices Go Down." Those who assume this pledge are expected to regard patches on trousers, shiny coat sleeves and worn-up spits in boots and shoes as badges of honor. The turning of old suits, sewing-in of new linings and other necessary alterations which make an old trousers, coat and vest serve the purpose of a new suit at one-third the cost, is another part of the practical application of the "league" precepts.

DENKINE GIVES RED CROSS PAINTING, "RUSSIA CRUCIFIED"

General Expresses Hope That Russian Soldier's Cause May Be Reproduced as Poster in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

KHARKOV, Southern Russia, Sept. 3, via Paris, Sept. 20.—"Russia Crucified," a remarkable painting by a Russian soldier, has been presented by Gen. Denkine, Commander in Chief of the army of South Russia, to the American Red Cross.

Artists who have seen the painting pronounce it a work of singular power and imagination. It represents a female figure in peasant dress, nailed to a cross, while a circle of scarlet devils dances around her. Through a cloud which half obscures its features, looms the face of Trotsky. Gen. Denkine has expressed the wish that the picture may be reproduced as a poster in America.

FALL PASTRY STYLES DISPLAYED

Doughnuts Shown at Bakers' Convention in Chicago Have No Holes.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Fall styles of pies, cakes and doughnuts are on display here today at the annual convention of the National Bakers' Association. The new doughnuts showed a distinctive departure from the old-fashioned ring shape, which many gobs and comparisons have been built. There was no hole, instead, according to the bakers, the inside of the doughnut is taken up with filling intended to add nutrition to the old style fried cake.

The bakers today predicted a return of war bread, with substitution of potato flour for wheat flour, and numerous other substitutions to save sugar and eggs.

CAPT. DAMMANN'S BODY FOUND NEAR TOBERMORY, ONT.

News Dispatch Relating to St. Louis Aeronaut in National Race Received This Morning.

FUNERAL OF AID HELD YESTERDAY

Body of Second Member of Crew of Ill-Fated 'Wichita' to Be Shipped Here at Once.

The body of Capt. Carl W. Dammann of 3614 Hartford street, pilot of the balloon "Wichita," which fell in Lake Huron during the national balloon race, has been found at Pine Tree Harbor, near Tobermory, Ont., according to a news dispatch received today from Owen Sound, Ont.

This completes the search for the "Wichita" and its lost crew. The balloon was found in the lake Oct. 13, three days after the start from Meramec Park, St. Louis. The body of Lieut. Edward J. Verheyden Jr., of 5244 Theodosia avenue, Capt. Dammann's aid, was found last week, and his funeral was held here yesterday.

The dispatch said the body was found by a resident of Tobermory, and that it would be started for St. Louis at once, to reach here the last of the week.

Dr. Grayson made reference to the increasing activity of the President's health. Early this morning Mrs. Wilson telephoned Mr. Tamm, Secretary of the Interior, and told him that the President was feeling better. The President has until midnight of Oct. 28 to act on the prohibition bill. Should he not act by that time the measure automatically would become a law. The secretary explained that the prohibition enforcement measure was before the Attorney-General.

It was learned today by Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, commander of the Missouri Aeronautic Reserve Corps, that a fisherman had reported having seen what he thought was a schooner, Oct. 2, two miles off Tobermory. The fisherman was driving a supply of coal and diesel oil, and the partly inflated balloon was seen 500 yards from shore, and the fisherman said it was what he had taken for a schooner.

At 3 p. m. Oct. 2, Capt. Dammann was seen by Capt. McCullough, in another balloon, to be descending rapidly from a height of 15,000 feet. This indicates that if the fisherman had known at that time that a balloon was in distress, a rescue might have been possible. However, a severe gale continued all that day.

Capt. Dammann was 27 years old, and was a graduate of Soldan High School, as was Lieut. Verheyden. He entered the army balloon service at Meramec Park in 1918 and was transferred to the balloon school at Fort Omaha, Neb., where he served as instructor until the close of the war.

Of the 10 entries in the national race, six landed safely in Canada, the winning entry being that from Akron, O., with Ralph Upson as pilot.

MEDIUM'S WIFE HAS LITTLE FAITH IN HIS OCCULT POWER

Wellston "Professor's" Wife Resorts to Advertisement to Recover

By the Associated Press.

A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country, and likewise a medium is not without power save in his own province, or so it would seem in the case of "Prof. E. Hamilton, spirit medium," 6122A Easton avenue, Wellston, otherwise known as W. A. Romacker, 6122A Theodosia avenue.

"Hamilton" admits that he can find any lost article just by making a list of the things he is looking for, but the process does not work freely, for the professor's services cost 10 cents and up, mostly up. A real chance for him to put his occult power to work has just come, a loss having been experienced in his own family.

"Hamilton's" wife recently inserted an advertisement in a Wellston paper to the effect that she had lost a ruby-set gold bar pin, a keepsake left her by her mother, and would appreciate its return.

When Mrs. Romacker was asked why her husband could not be of help to her in finding her lost article, she said:

"That's none of your business; you're just sneaking around here trying to start something among us poor folks again."

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A campaign in favor of prohibition is actively proceeding throughout the country. Distinguished politicians and members of the clergy are participating in it.

Lieut. Jones of the World League Against Alcoholism, presiding at a meeting of the United Kingdom Alliance, said that the future of mankind would depend on the closer co-operation of the United States and Great Britain, and that it was desirable that they advance together in the campaign against alcohol, as the problem was a common one throughout the civilized world.

PRESIDENT SIGNS SEVERAL BILLS. HAD EXCELLENT NIGHT

Doctors Report One of Best Nights Since Illness Began; Digestion Is Better.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—President Wilson today signed several bills recently passed by Congress. Secretary Tamm announced.

The measures included the amendments to the food control bill designed to prevent hoarding and of profiteering in food and clothing. The President's physicians reported that Mr. Wilson last night had one of the best nights since he became ill. They issued this bulletin:

"WHITE HOUSE, Oct. 22, 1919, 11:10 a. m.—The President had one of the best nights since his illness began. His temperature, pulse and respiration rates continue normal. His digestion is more satisfactory."

"GRAYSON, 'RUFFIN,' 'STITT.' The President was said by Secretary Tamm to be "in fine shape" this morning. Early this morning Mrs. Wilson telephoned Mr. Tamm, Secretary of the Interior, and told him that the President was feeling better. The President has until midnight of Oct. 28 to act on the prohibition bill. Should he not act by that time the measure automatically would become a law. ### AMERICAN TOURISTS SHIVER IN HEATLESS PARIS HOTELS

Official Prohibition Against Use of Coal Before Nov. 1 and Weather Is Cold and Damp.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—American tourists who have recently reached Paris with their own coal supply with them, October has been unusually cold and damp, but there is an official prohibition against the use of coal for general heating purposes before Nov. 1, so that only those hotels able to obtain a supply of coal before that date are able to keep their guests comfortable. Travelers from Berlin and Vienna say that prices there are much higher and heat also is lacking.

Although it was believed that Paris hotels would have an abundance of coal after the departure of the armies of allied war workers, Paris seems just as badly crowded as at this time last year and tourists are walking the streets seeking accommodations.

GOVERNMENT WARNS STRIKERS

Threatens to Fill Places and Prosecute New York Express Employees.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Striking express employees of New York City were warned today by the Railroad Administration that unless they returned to work their places would be filled immediately and that any interference with the conduct of the express business or its employees would be prosecuted under State and Federal statutes.

BERNSTORFF TELLS HOW WILSON TRIED TO OBTAIN PEACE

Former Ambassador Testifying in Berlin Relates President's Efforts to End War in 1914 and 1916.

GERMAN OFFERS HALTED ACTIVITIES

Asserts That Entente Nations Interpreted Teuton Proposals as Evidences of Weakness.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Count Johann von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, who yesterday was the principal witness before the committee investigating the responsibility of German officials in causing the outbreak of the great war, resumed his testimony today.

Count von Bernstorff, referring to the peace overtures contained in the memorandum written by Emperor William Oct. 9, 1916, explained that this memorandum had been telegraphed to him for transmission to A. M. House because it had not been finished in time to be handed to Ambassador Wilson and Count von Bernstorff returned to America for a short vacation in the autumn of 1916.

Count Bernstorff said that the document referred to a conversation between the Emperor and Ambassador Gerard, held at general headquarters at Charleville, France, in which the possibility of peace overtures by the United States was discussed. President Wilson and Ambassador Gerard had made an impression in Washington, in that it demonstrated that Germany was ready promptly to accept the mediation of the President.

At the time the presidential campaign in the United States precluded President Wilson from attempting any definite action, said the witness.

Wilson Ready to Act

Count von Bernstorff, when a member of the commission asked him whether he understood his instructions in the sense that he was to influence or encourage President Wilson and Count von Bernstorff to undertake a peace move in favor of Germany. He also answered affirmatively a question whether President Wilson was ready to accede to the wishes of the former Emperor and Count von Bernstorff to undertake a peace move in favor of Germany.

The committee of investigation consists of two German members of the National Assembly, two majority Socialist deputies and one each from the clerical, conservative and Independent Socialist parties. Prof. Dr. Dietrich, a historical expert who will pass upon the evidence.

The chairman of the committee at the opening of Secretary Lane declared that the conference had produced nothing, and advised it to take a new start by adjourning for several days while a co-ordinating committee of not more than six members framed a program of action.

Defeated on every point, and having lost the support of the public group, which heretofore had been on the side of the workers, the labor delegates left the conference half-disheartened and feeling, as some of them said, that little could be gained by further meetings.

The afternoon meeting was not convened until 5 o'clock. The entire day was devoted to group meetings in an attempt to devise another declaration on collective bargaining satisfactory to all elements. After more than three days of almost continuous sessions, the employers were unable to agree upon another statement and fell back upon the Wheeler substitute. Members of the public group attempted to effect a compromise by the substitution of the words, "associations of their own choosing" for "trade and labor unions." In the clause of the group's resolution guaranteeing workers the right to organize, and the five labor representatives on the general committee of 15 spent two hours in joint meeting with the public explaining labor's objection to the change. This amendment was introduced by Chadbourne, but the public group alone voted favorably.

When the original Russell-Endicott resolution came up for discussion, Samuel Compers declared that the withdrawal of the support of the public group was due to an interpretation of the words "trade and labor unions" by one member of the group, who is allied with organized labor and that the phrase excludes all but American Federation of Labor organizations. It was said that the reference was to J. R. Forrester, alternate for Bert M. Jewell, acting president of the Railway Employees' Department of the federation.

Gompers' Warning to Capital.
The right to organize for the purpose of collective bargaining, Gompers continued, is the one question in controversy—the one thing the working people of the United States are entitled to achieve. The labor leader, facing the employers' wing and shaking his finger, said:

"If you do not bear with us in an effort toward construction, if you think it impossible for us to secure relief for the suffering masses of American labor, if you insist on continuing with us every inch of the ground in our battle for better conditions, if you deny us the rights of organization, if you render our work morally impossible, you may destroy us, but you will find yourselves facing something else, something worse, and you may come to rue the day that you destroyed the saneness and the willingness to serve that has made us do characteristic of the officials of American trade unionism today."

Gompers again sounded a note of warning when he told the members of the conference that he feared they did not appreciate the "critical situation in which we find ourselves today." The people of the United States, he asserted, are "sitting on a bomb." Turning toward the employers, he added, "Whether you like it or not, trade unionism has come to the United States to stay."

Concluding with the statement that, although the conference may fail to satisfy the real needs of the workers, he said the organized labor movement would continue to flourish, and "whatever may be denied us today, we will win tomorrow."

MEN GIVEN RIDE STEAL AUTO, $326 AND WATCH OF OWNER

Later Is Forced to Walk Several Miles to Mascoutah, Ill., to Report Robbery.

John H. Pierce of Laverton, Ok., was held up by two men he had given a ride in his automobile on the road between Belleville and Mascoutah, Ill., last night, and robbed of the machine, $326 and a watch, and a suit case full of clothing, according to a report to policemen at Belleville. The theft of the automobile forced Pierce to walk several miles to Mascoutah.

Pierce told the police that he left Belleville yesterday afternoon for Mascoutah, on his way to Indiana. Several miles out of Belleville two men stepped from the timber and asked him for a "lift." They entered the car and Pierce drove on for about a mile, when the engine stopped. He got out and cranked until the motor started, and when he arose from his stooping position found himself facing two revolvers. The men told him it would be healthier for him to walk and drive away.

POISONED BABY IN HOSPITAL

Chicago Doctor Who Saved Luikart Children Has Parallel Case.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Little Sherry and Edna Luikart, recovering at a hospital here from a slowly acting poison administered by their demented mother, today had as a fellow patient Teddy Harrington, 3 years old, whose case parallels their own in many features.

Six days ago the baby, suffering from the same poison that threatened the little girls' lives, was sent to the Detroit hospital, to which they were taken from Royak, Mich., his life despaired of. It was decided to bring the little fellow to the specialist whose treatment is restoring the health of the Luikart children. How the Harrington baby obtained the poison is unexplained.

QUANTITY OF SUGAR IN NEW YORK

2,000,000 Pounds Offered to Bakers at 18¢ Cents a Pound.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Two million pounds of sugar have been offered to New York bakers at 18¢ cents a pound, despite the seriousness of the sugar shortage here. Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator, said that a representative of the master bakers of Brooklyn had informed him of the offer, and that he was convinced that there was no possibility of sugar being sold for export.

7 RESERVATIONS PRESENTED TO SENATE BY M'CUMBER

Cover Withdrawal From League, Article X Domestic Questions, Shantung and Equalization of Assembly Vote.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, presented in the Senate yesterday a series of proposed reservations to the peace treaty, saying the plan presented was the outgrowth of conferences between the "mild" group and the Republicans favoring "stronger" reservations.

The reservations by Senator McCumber follow:
On withdrawal.
1. That the United States understands, and so construes Article I, that in case of withdrawal from the league of nations, as provided in said article, the United States shall be the sole judge as to whether all its international obligations and all its obligations under the said covenant have been fulfilled.

2. The United States assumes no obligation to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country or to interfere in controversies between nations whether members of the league or not under the provisions of Article 10 or to employ the military or naval forces of the United States under any article of the treaty for any purpose, unless in any particular case the Congress which, under the Constitution, has the sole power to declare war or authorize the employment of the military and naval forces of the United States, shall, by act or joint resolution so declare.

Domestic questions.
3. The United States reserves to itself exclusively the right to decide what questions are within its domestic jurisdiction and declares that all domestic and political questions relating to its internal affairs, including immigration, coastwise traffic, the tariff, commerce, and all other domestic questions, are solely within the jurisdiction of the United States and are not under this treaty, submitted in any way, either to arbitration or to the consideration of the council or the assembly of the league of nations or to the decision or recommendation of any other power.

Monroe Doctrine Reservation.
4. The United States does not bind itself to submit to arbitration or inquiry by the assembly or the council any question which, in the judgment of the United States, depends upon or involves its long-established policy commonly known as the Monroe Doctrine. Said doctrine is to be interpreted by the United States alone and is hereby declared to be wholly outside the jurisdiction of said league of nations; and it is preserved unaffected by any provision in said treaty contained.

Shantung.
5. The United States refrains from entering into any agreement upon its part in reference to the matters contained in articles 155, 157, 158, and 159 of the said treaty, and in respect to any controversy which may arise in relation thereto.

Dominions' Vote.
6. Where neither principal country nor dominion is party to dispute the United States reserves the right, upon the submission of any dispute to the council or the assembly, to object to any member and its self-governing dominions, dependencies or possessions having in the aggregate more than one vote; and in case such objection is made the United States assumes no obligation to be bound by any election, finding or decision in respect to the said dispute.

Where principal country or dominion is party to the dispute, that the United States understands and construes the words "dispute between members" and the words "dispute between parties" in article 15 to mean that a dispute with a self-governing dominion, colony or dependency represented in the assembly is a dispute with the dominant or principal member represented therein, and that a dispute with such dominant or principal member is a dispute with all its self-governing dominions, colonies or dependencies; and that the exclusion of the parties to the dispute provided in the last paragraph of said article will cover not only the dominant or principal member, but also its dominions, colonies and dependencies.

The McCumber reservations were presented for printing under the title of "Suggested Compromise Reservations."

Former President Taft's suggested reservations are as follows:
"The United States assumed no obligation under the provisions of article 10 to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country or to interfere in controversies between other nations, whether members of the league or not, or under any article of the treaty for any purpose to employ the military and naval forces of the United States except as, in any particular case, the Congress, which under the Constitution has the sole power to declare war and to authorize the employment of the military and naval forces of the United States, shall by act or joint resolution so specifically determine."

"The Senate advises and consents to the treaty with the understanding and reservation as part of the instrument of ratification, that under article 10 of the covenant of the league of nations no self-governing dominion or colony of the British empire, of France, of Italy, of Japan, of the United States or of any other nation, whose representative is a member of the council, can have a representative on the council; and with the further understanding and reservation that the exclusion of the parties to the dispute in article 15 from the council or assembly when hearing such dispute, includes both the mother country and herself governing dominions or colonies, members of the league, when either such mother country or dominion or colony is a party to the dispute."

Jones' Reservations.
Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, presented a reservation by which the United States would give notice that it intended to withdraw from the league at the end of two years unless within that time Shantung had been restored to China; the Irish situation should be satisfactory to the Irish people; Egypt made an independent state and peace-time conscription abolished by all of the league members.

LABOR MEETING AN AND IN CLEARLY DEFINING VIEWS

Unionists Reveal Opposition to Shop Councils and Employers to Organizing Public Workers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Union labor waited all day and got nothing. Capital wouldn't yield an inch its right to hire or fire, to deal or not to deal with anybody it pleased. And the public group offered a fair and honest proposal establishing a broad principle that workmen have a right to organize into associations of their own choosing, but both capital and labor voted it, and the net result of more than two weeks of bickering at the industrial peace conference is simply a determination to bicker further.

The trouble is that any resolution, however carefully phrased, wouldn't satisfy either the employers or employees' groups because each has in mind certain inferences and interpretations based on past experience and policy which would rise up to block the passage of any principle, however perfectly phrased in itself. The need for a complete program of principles safeguarding rights here, denouncing abuses there, defining privileges and stating limits, is now recognized. Until a comprehensive declaration of principles is before the conference, so that each group can point to the exact defects without taking refuge, as now, in the fear of a misinterpretation of a single resolution on collective bargaining, there can be no intelligent linchpin on any side.

Instead of a feeling of despair, hopefulness prevails. Hire and there in the labor or the public or the capital group, the one who thinks the conference can accomplish nothing and that further meetings would be futile, but the optimists predominate and the conference is to go on.

Who is to blame for the procrastination and disagreement? No one group, but all of them combined. Union labor, however, put itself in such an awkward and ambiguous position at the Tuesday session that unquestionably many members in the public group who are among the best of the working men's friends have felt their sympathies torn for the moment from the American position.

LABOR MEETING AN AND IN CLEARLY DEFINING VIEWS

Unionists Reveal Opposition to Shop Councils and Employers to Organizing Public Workers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Union labor waited all day and got nothing. Capital wouldn't yield an inch its right to hire or fire, to deal or not to deal with anybody it pleased. And the public group offered a fair and honest proposal establishing a broad principle that workmen have a right to organize into associations of their own choosing, but both capital and labor voted it, and the net result of more than two weeks of bickering at the industrial peace conference is simply a determination to bicker further.

2 BOLSHIEV TORPEDO. BOATS SUNK IN BATTLE

British and Estonian Vessels Suffer No Casualties in Fight.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Two Bolsheviki torpedo boat destroyers were sunk in Koperin Bay, Gulf of Finland, when they attempted to attack Estonian vessels and British destroyers yesterday, the admiralty announced today.

Six survivors from the Bolsheviki vessels were picked up. The British and Estonians sustained no casualties.

Gen. Yudenitch, commander of the Northwestern Russian Army, seems to have been brought to a virtual standstill by the stubborn defense of Petrograd, which is almost within sight of his men. Soviet forces are even reported to have taken the offensive north of Krasnoye Selo.

East of Pulkovo the Yudenitch army appears to have encountered strong Bolsheviki columns. Pulkovo is about three miles from the only remaining railway line running south from Petrograd, and the importance of retaining control of this road may explain the savage fighting in that sector. Late reports state that heavier artillery is being brought up by Gen. Yudenitch.

The offices at Riga of the American Relief Administration European Children's Fund, were destroyed by a high explosive shell Monday, according to a dispatch to the headquarters of the organization here. None of the three officers engaged in the relief work was hurt and the feeding of the children is to proceed as before.

TREATY ADOPTION VITAL TO TRADE, BANKERS ARE TOLD

Thomas W. Lamont, Unable to Be Present, Says in Report, Credits Must Be Extended to Europe.

BUYING OF FOREIGN SECURITIES URGED

Election of Officers and Board of Governors on Schedule Today, Last Day of Convention.

Thomas W. Lamont of New York, financial adviser to the American delegation at the peace conference, in a report read before the convention of the Investment Bankers' Association at Hotel Statler today by Arthur J. Rosenthal, a New York investment banker, declared that immediate ratification of the peace treaty by the United States Senate and the extension of credit to European nations through the medium of large purchases of foreign securities are essential if American export trade is to be maintained.

Lamont was prevented from attending the convention, which has been in session since Monday, but forwarded his report. Rosenthal associated with him in his preparation, together with other noted American financiers, among them Mortimer L. Schiff, Allen B. Forbes and H. L. Stuart.

Ratification Essential.

"Much has appeared in the public press," Lamont's report stated, "as to the necessity of extending credit to European countries, but few steps have actually been taken. 'Passing the buck' is the slang expression that describes what we have done along this line. Many are of the opinion that this is a question to be settled by the bankers or Wall street, but it is not. The extension of credit, the rendering of help to Europe in order to enable her nations to continue their purchases in the United States is a work for every thrifty and solvent citizen of this country.

"To meet the reconstruction problems, it is necessary for us to develop a spirit of co-operation, but even this is not enough, as it is impossible for us to do anything in the way of concrete credit measures pending the ratification of the peace treaty by the Senate.

Reference to Tax Exemptions.

Lamont then told of how, he was asked, while in Paris, to arrange an international agreement exempting the holders, in any part of the world, of foreign securities from all except the taxes of their own country. "I have discussed this matter at some length with financial representatives of the principal powers of the world," he said, "and feel that it will be quite possible for American investors, when they buy foreign securities authorized for issue in this market, to receive specific tax exemptions, that is to say, exemptions from foreign taxes for each specific issue."

"This question of foreign credits is of vital importance to the United States at the present moment. Foreign exchanges should be supported at least, if not brought back to normal. If this is not done, Great Britain, France and the other countries abroad will find it most difficult to continue their purchases from American manufacturers and exporters and the reaction on America will be severe."

Predicts Large Loans.

Lamont ventured the opinion that the United States will shortly see large loans to Great Britain, Belgium, France and Italy to enable their nations to continue their trade with America.

The committee recommended the establishment of a financial library in New York, where financial statistics, information and literature of all kinds covering securities issued in all parts of the world would be available to American investors. The library, it was pointed out, could be supported by the Investment Bankers' Association, the American Bankers' Association and the New York Stock Exchange.

The library, in the opinion of the committee, could maintain a registration department for the registration of foreign securities offered by American houses. Such a department could prevent counterfeiting and other frauds that are common to foreign securities, owing to the fact that they are frequently in crude printed form and lack proper identification marks.

Discussion Follows Report.

The report stated that a number of international committees have been appointed, composed of representatives of American, French and English banking houses, to protect holders of securities in Mexico, Russia and Ecuador. No action will be taken by the committee handling the Russian securities until some Government has been established there. Powers have been established there.

In a discussion which followed the reading of the report, the delegates recounted their experiences with foreign securities, in every instance stating that defaults had never been encountered.

Exposition Shows Benefits of Occupational Therapy

Articles Made by Patients After Learning New Crafts Form Interesting and Novel Exhibit.

Occupational therapy (the science of healing by work) provides one of the most interesting, as well as novel, exhibits at the St. Louis Exposition of Industrial Arts and Crafts in the old Southern Hotel Building. It is under the management of the Missouri Association for Occupational Therapy, with which the St. Louis School of Occupational Therapy, 3510 Washington avenue, recently was merged.

Articles made by patients at the city sanitarium, city hospital, Barnes Hospital wards, girls' detention home and children's hospital are on display. They consist of toys, fancy needle work, ornaments and more substantial things such as rugs, draperies, brushes and baskets.

Two little boys inmates of the city sanitarium, both epileptic since infancy, and mentally, as well as physically, subnormal, attract the attention of visitors this week as they sit at a work bench and industriously and dexterously round out scrubbing brushes under the supervision of a teacher.

School Was Organized in 1918.

The St. Louis School of Occupational Therapy was organized in October, 1918, to train women to answer the call of the Surgeon-General of the Army for Reconstruction Aids in Government Hospitals. The school was organized by a group of individuals called together by the Women's Committee, Council of National Defense. An Executive Committee was formed which represented in its membership the Women's Committee, Council of National Defense; St. Louis Junior League, St. Louis School of Fine Arts, the medical departments of Washington University and St. Louis University; the Board of Education, the Federal Board for Vocational Training, the Ranken Trade School and the city medical institutions.

The course of training was planned to meet the specifications of the Surgeon-General. From a large number of applicants, 16 students were admitted and have pursued an intensive course of art-craft work, followed by a period of practice training of 10 weeks in St. Louis hospitals.

Aids Disabled Patients.

The cessation of hostilities in Europe diminished the need for such work in the military hospitals, and since then the work has been developed to a high degree in civilian hospitals. Occupational therapy has was to have addressed the convention in the forenoon on "The Side of Labor in Our Industrial Affairs," but he sent a telegram to officials of the association stating that he was detained in Washington by the industrial conference.

The visit of the Belgian King and Queen caused a suspension of all business at the convention yesterday morning, and disarranged the program for the afternoon. However, by rushing matters along and by limiting discussion those in charge of the convention managed to present three important reports, the afternoon session covering railroad securities and legislation and fraudulent advertising.

The delegates were the guests of local investment bankers at a dinner at the Missouri Athletic Association last night. Afterward they were entertained with a smoker and vaudeville.

Government ownership of the railroads was characterized as both impracticable and unwise and not in the permanent interest of the railroads, the general public, shippers or labor. In the report submitted by the association's Committee on Railroad Securities, of which Allen B. Forbes, a New York investment banker, is the chairman.

The report recommended the early return of the roads to private ownership and the working out of a plan to provide rates that will enable the less favorably situated lines to prosper without providing too generous returns for the roads more favorably situated.

The committee held that in order to enable the roads to meet the industrial and commercial needs of the country, credit must be placed on a sound and satisfactory basis.

In discussing the labor situation, the report says: "It is obvious that a railroad program cannot be complete or successful which does not insure continued and uninterrupted railroad service and in order to accomplish this, conditions surrounding labor must be satisfactory, wages paid for labor must be as liberal as working conditions are attractive as in other lines of industry."

The committee recommends laws establishing boards of arbitration, before which all labor grievances must be brought.

Also been found of distinct economic value, as it serves to prepare the industrial worker to return once more to a state of self-support, even though his physical or mental handicap may be of a permanent nature, tending to discourage him in the struggle for a living.

The teachers, like trained nurses, conduct their work under the guidance and supervision of physicians, the course of training for the various patients being prescribed by the attending physician or surgeon, according to the nature of the individual case.

Certain kinds of employment are prescribed for cases of heart disease, entirely different from the class of work mapped out for patients with nervous ailments. The work is of great value in the convalescent period, as it keeps the patient from brooding over his handicap and instills in him an ambition in life by making him realize that in spite of his handicap there is some occupation in which he can find self-support and happiness.

15 Teachers Engaged.

Dr. G. Canby Robinson, dean of the Washington University School of Medicine, as chairman of the Executive Committee, directs the work of the local corps. Workshops have been installed in the city sanitarium, Barnes Hospital wards and the girls' detention home. There are 15 teachers engaged in the work, having graduated last year, and 12 more students will graduate this year.

ALBERT AND HIS QUEEN GUESTS OF CINCINNATI

Children Get Half Holiday and Greet Belgian Party With Songs and Flowers.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 22.—Albert, King of the Belgians, and Queen Elizabeth were guests of Cincinnati today. School children, given half a holiday in honor of the occasion, lined the streets traversed by the party and greeted its members with flowers and songs.

The distinguished visitors, on their arrival, were greeted by Gov. James M. Cox, Mayor Galvin and other State and city officials.

Following the ceremonies at the railway station, the King made a tour of several of Cincinnati's industrial plants, and the Queen visited the principal schools of either the Northern or Southern organization.

Heated discussion and debate that bore little resemblance to the usual religious meeting followed the introduction of the alignment resolution this morning. Several delegates were on their feet immediately, shouting for recognition, and a motion was carried to limit each speaker to 10 minutes.

Upon the success of this motion, a minister appeared with a large alarm clock, by which the speakers were timed. As the shrill ringing of the clock ended each speech, several delegates jumped up and sought recognition.

Plan Is Opposed.

The Rev. W. C. Biting of the Second Baptist Church here appeared as the leader of the opposition, which does not ask for alignment with the Northern Baptist convention, but does insist on the continuance of the present arrangement, known as the "Missouri plan," by which the separate churches contribute to either or both of the sectional bodies, and are not aligned with either.

The plan was adopted at the time of the Civil War to prevent a breach, and has been continued ever since.

Biting, in opposing the resolution, said there were four motives behind its introduction. One of these, he said, was the alleged radical views of Dr. Shailer Matthews of the school of divinity of Chicago University, head of the Baptist convention. He said an organ of the Southern Baptist convention recently denounced Dr. Matthews as "an infidel of the most dangerous sort," and complained that views taught at the university tended toward atheism.

He did not give the other motives, as his time was out.

Remarks by Biting and other speakers were applauded by delegates, despite an announcement by the moderator that applause was undignified and would not be permitted.

The line of division between the Northern and Southern churches never has been as clearly drawn in the cities as in the rural districts. Comparatively few persons, for instance, know that the Second Baptist Church here is "Northern," and the Third Baptist "Southern." At no time since the Civil War has the sectional question been so seriously raised as at this convention.

More than 1100 delegates and visitors are attending, about 200 of whom slept in cots in the Third Baptist Church last night because of difficulty in getting hotel accommodations. Many others are quartered with St. Louis Baptists. Delegates jokingly remarked yesterday that many men had slept in the pews before, but never had been supplied with beds.

It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus so nobly advanced.

"We who are here today, coming from a far distant country, can never forget what President Lincoln has done and may we find in his noble example the strength and firmness which makes a ruler worthy to be dedicated in his country to that always unfinished work of progress, welfare and ideals which this great man had thus far so nobly advanced."

Go to Church and Sunday School next Sunday.—Adv.

THREE LABORERS HURT IN FIGHT ON TOP OF 100-FOOT BUILDING

Workers on New East St. Louis Structure Say They Were Attacked With Iron Bars.

Three men were injured at 2 a. m. today during a fight on top of a 100-foot concrete structure which is being erected on the levee at East St. Louis, south of Eads Bridge, for the Kehler Milling Co.

The men, concrete workers, say they were engaged in their work when they were attacked by some men who previously had been employed on the job.

The men battled about the top of the building, at times dangerously near the edge, and railroad men, fearing that some of them would be dashed to the ground, telephoned police headquarters.

Ben Bradbury of 2514 A Coleman street, St. Louis, was cut on the head and face. He did not regain consciousness until he arrived at St. Mary's Hospital.

T. B. Stokes of 735 North Forty-first street, East St. Louis, said he and Bradbury had been struck by iron bars. Stokes received several cuts and bruises on the head and face. Ben Green of 423 St. Louis avenue was bruised. All the men involved are said to be union men.

Remarks by Biting and other speakers were applauded by delegates, despite an announcement by the moderator that applause was undignified and would not be permitted.

The line of division between the Northern and Southern churches never has been as clearly drawn in the cities as in the rural districts. Comparatively few persons, for instance, know that the Second Baptist Church here is "Northern," and the Third Baptist "Southern." At no time since the Civil War has the sectional question been so seriously raised as at this convention.

More than 1100 delegates and visitors are attending, about 200 of whom slept in cots in the Third Baptist Church last night because of difficulty in getting hotel accommodations. Many others are quartered with St. Louis Baptists. Delegates jokingly remarked yesterday that many men had slept in the pews before, but never had been supplied with beds.

It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus so nobly advanced.

"We who are here today, coming from a far distant country, can never forget what President Lincoln has done and may we find in his noble example the strength and firmness which makes a ruler worthy to be dedicated in his country to that always unfinished work of progress, welfare and ideals which this great man had thus far so nobly advanced."

THREE LABORERS HURT IN FIGHT ON TOP OF 100-FOOT BUILDING

Workers on New East St. Louis Structure Say They Were Attacked With Iron Bars.

Three men were injured at 2 a. m. today during a fight on top of a 100-foot concrete structure which is being erected on the levee at East St. Louis, south of Eads Bridge, for the Kehler Milling Co.

The men, concrete workers, say they were engaged in their work when they were attacked by some men who previously had been employed on the job.

The men battled about the top of the building, at times dangerously near the edge, and railroad men, fearing that some of them would be dashed to the ground, telephoned police headquarters.

Ben Bradbury of 2514 A Coleman street, St. Louis, was cut on the head and face. He did not regain consciousness until he arrived at St. Mary's Hospital.

T. B. Stokes of 735 North Forty-first street, East St. Louis, said he and Bradbury had been struck by iron bars. Stokes received several cuts and bruises on the head and face. Ben Green of 423 St. Louis avenue was bruised. All the men involved are said to be union men.

DIVISION OF MISSOURI BAPTISTS THREATENED

Convention Votes to Join Southern Group—Delegates From 40 Northern Churches.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The farmers' side of the high cost of living question was presented to the Senate today by Senator Capper, Republican of Kansas, who declared that, while farmers are selling their products at a loss in declining markets, the consumers are paying rising prices.

Faulty distribution was blamed largely for this "remarkable spectacle," and the Senator urged several remedies to increase production. He deplored the numerous industrial strikes and the small representation given agriculture in the industrial conference.

"In our efforts to get rid of the high cost of living disease," said Senator Capper, "I fear we are in great danger of dying of the remedy. As a result of Washington's effort to reduce high prices by breaking down entirely the cost of food, we have the remarkable spectacle of a rise of 1 per cent in the cost of living, coincident with market drops that are putting livestock raisers out of business and causing serious losses to other producers."

Selling Wheat at Loss.

Illustrating the anomalous situation of farmers and consumers, Senator Capper said farmers are selling their wheat at a loss.

It takes four and a half bushels of wheat to make a barrel of flour. The wheat raiser gets about $3.37 for the wheat, the miller $12.70, the baker $58.70 and the hotel keeper here in Washington, as it is sold out in this slice, $387.

The Government, through the Grain Corporation, Senator Capper said, profited $23,000,000 at the expense of farmers last year, the farmers selling from 20 to 70 cents less than the guaranteed price.

"The situation of the livestock farmers is even more deplorable," he said. "Farmers are selling their grain-fed beefs and hogs for less than it cost to produce them, but the consumer finds little or no change in the price of meat."

"While everything a farmer must buy demands the high dollar, the price of his commodities, the cheapest in the markets, are held down by a foreign embargo and a Government guarantee."

"Without visibly helping the consumer we have brought about a crisis in our most fundamental and vital as his time was out."

SUPPORT ASSURED SCHOOL TAX INCREASE

Chairman John Schmoll of the Republican City Committee announced today that he would support the proposal to increase the school tax levy from 40 to 75 cents on the $100, and said he was certain the Republican organization would give its active support at the election Nov. 11.

His announcement followed a conversation with Jesse McDonald, president of the Board of Education, in which Schmoll reiterated his former statement that he would not support the proposal unless assurances were given that the additional money derived from the increase would be used for the benefit of the grade teachers, and not to increase the pay of high-salaried executives.

McDonald told him that while it would be impossible at this time to make any promises on how the board would vote on the disposal of the money when the time comes, he (McDonald) was of the same mind as Schmoll on the matter, and proposed to act accordingly if circumstances were unchanged.

Schmoll said afterward that he was convinced McDonald had the intention and the influence to see that the money would be properly expended. Therefore, he said, he would support the proposal, and endeavor to have the organization support it. Labor leaders had made demands for similar assurances.

McDonald yesterday issued a statement appealing to the taxpayers to support the proposed increase, without which, he said, the schools will lose many of their best teachers.

The money derived from the tax increase would not be available for a year, but the surety that it would be available would enable the Board of Education to provide for an immediate increase in teachers' salaries.

WISCONSIN WOODSMAN, KNOWN TO ST. LOUISANS, KILLED IN AUTO

"Shorty" Fournier of Three Lakes and Woman Friend Lose Lives in Accident.

BROWNSVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 22.—M. S. Fournier of Three Lakes, Wis., and Mrs. John P. Ragland, wife of a merchant of this city, were killed in an automobile accident near Stanton Monday. Ragland and Mrs. Fournier, formerly of St. Louis, who were in the machine were uninjured. The car, with Fournier driving and Mrs. Ragland in the front seat, beside him, was proceeding at moderate speed on the road that tops Big Muddy Levee, three miles from Stanton. It skidded, slid down the levee and overturned in mud and shallow water. Fournier and Mrs. Ragland were pinned under the car and were drowned. Ragland and Mrs. Fournier were thrown clear of the machine. Mrs. Fournier departed yesterday for Three Lakes with her husband's body.

Fournier was proprietor of a primitive fishing and hunting resort on Buttercup Lake, in the Big Woods of northern Wisconsin. He was widely known in that region as "Shorty," an expert woodsman, hunter and trapper and had many friends among St. Louisans who spend their summers in Wisconsin.

BOY ADMITS STARTING 3 FIRES

Delinquent, 13, Says He Caused Blazes at Methodist Orphans' Home.

Robert Van Buren, 13 years old, a delinquent at the Methodist Orphans' Home, St. Louis and Bonhomme avenues, Clayton, confessed to the patron of the home yesterday that he started three fires in the building in the past three days. He said he wanted to see a big fire.

The boy was sent to the home from the St. Louis Children's Hospital. After the confession he was sent to his mother at 5520 Etzel avenue. The third fire was discovered in one of the dormitories at 7 p. m. yesterday, when one of the beds was found in flames. The first fire was Sunday morning in a locker and the second was Sunday evening in another locker. There are 85 children in the home.

GREAT DAY FOR BELGIUM, ALBERT
SAYS, DEPARTING

Committee at Station Is Quick to Assure King His Visit Also Meant Great Day for St. Louis.

"This has been a great day for Belgium," was the parting declaration of King Albert at Union Station yesterday afternoon, just before his departure at 3 o'clock for Springfield, Ill., after a stay of five hours and 10 minutes as the city's guest.

The members of the Reception Committee assured the King, with equal heartiness, that it had been a great day for St. Louis.

The King and Queen of the Belgians and their elder son, 18-year-old Crown Prince Leopold, made an impression on their official hosts and on the St. Louis public which was wholly favorable. The most passionate democrat could not find fault with any word or act of these representatives of royalty while they were here, or with the way in which they were greeted and entertained.

Visits Refrigerating Plant.

After their morning drive, over a route of more than nine miles, the King talked at Hotel Statler with newspaper reporters and with a few of the representatives of the investment bankers, in convention at the hotel, and was taken to inspect the plant of the St. Louis Refrigerating and Cold Storage Co., Lewis and O'Fallon streets. As the King is inspecting industrial plants on his tour of the United States, it had been planned to take him to several local establishments, but the late arrival of the special train cut down the time available, and the refrigerating plant was the King's selection.

At the Chamber of Commerce luncheon, following his return to the hotel, the King responded to the greetings of Gov. Gardner and Mayor Kiel, saying:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—Allow me to thank you heartily, Mr. Governor and Mr. Mayor, for the very kind and touching manner in which they have welcomed me here, as a guest of the Chamber of Commerce. I wish to assure you the real pleasure it gives me to visit your splendid town of St. Louis, one of the most important industrial and commercial centers.

Admires Enterprise.

"One of the things that I have admired most in your country is your wonderful activity and spirit of enterprise, the large scale upon which your industrial plants are established and the methods with which they are run. This allows us to look into the future with confidence, because I firmly believe that in every country one of the most important things is to increase production. Without increasing production in the old countries, I fear that the world would face very difficult years.

"It is very gratifying for me to find here such sympathy toward Belgium, and if I had the occasion of appreciating the friendly feeling of your fellow-citizens, I express to the inhabitants of the fourth city of the United States my feelings of gratitude, which are those of my countrymen, for the generous and most effective help the country brought us during these terrible years of struggle and trial. I form the most sincere wishes for the prosperity of St. Louis and for the welfare and happiness of its inhabitants."

Queen Hears Negroes Sing.

At the same time, Queen Elisabeth was at a small luncheon in a private dining room, as guest of the women's committee. She had asked for negro plantation music, but no jazz, at this luncheon, and Chairman Smith had obtained, through William Layhe, a steamboat man, a quartet of negro roustabouts, trained in the melodies of the levee and the lower deck. These singers, wearing overalls, big harvest hats and red bandanas, sat in a corner of the room and sang, first, at the Queen's request, "Swanee River." The Queen sang the words with them, saying she had known the song since she was a child. She asked for other Stephen Foster songs, and then the quartet introduced some selections of its own, ending with "Dixie." The Queen marked time gently with hands and feet to the favorite air of the South, saying, "That is what you call real peppy."

The King and Crown Prince came in, after the Chamber of Commerce luncheon, in time to hear the singing of the negroes and the overseas quartet, which had sung at the public luncheon, also sang for the women's party.

Menu at Main Luncheon.

The menu served to the King and Crown Prince and those seated next to them at the larger luncheon, was: Fruit cocktail, celery, olives, roast turkey, green peas, potatoes au gratin, lettuce and Thousand Islands dressing, brick ice cream and cakes, and coffee. The other luncheoners, who paid $1.50 each, had the same, except that spring lamb was substituted for turkey, and apple pie for ice cream.

The Queen, between the morning drive and the luncheon, was taken, at her request, to inspect Barnes Hospital, which the party had passed in the morning drive. She visited various wards, spoke to children in beds in the surgical ward and showed interest in the ward devoted to occupational therapy, or healing by work, and in the maternity ward.

After the departure from the hotel, the Queen officiated at the formal closing of the Red Cross cartoon in the Union Station yards, which thus ended its 15 months of war service. She lowered the flag over the cartoon.

At the station a large crowd saw the departure of the party. The members of the Belgian Benevolent Society, who had greeted the King and Queen on the morning drive, shouted "Vive le Roi!" as the royal pair, after handshaking with the Reception Committee, boarded the train.

The Crown Prince made friends by his modesty and his serious, but courteous manner, of all who were introduced to him. Mayor Kiel, who was his particular host, became very fond of the blushing youth, who asked him many questions about St. Louis, its people and its industries, but said nothing about himself. "He is just a regular boy, and a good boy," the Mayor said.

The King declined an overcoat while going through the zero-temperature freezers of the refrigerating plant. It was too cold for Gov. Gardner, who returned to the office before the inspection had fairly begun.

Asks Many Questions.

The King asked about the meats, berries and other fruits in storage, where they were grown, how they had been prepared for freezing and where they were to be marketed. He also inquired as to the capacity of the plant, the freezing methods, and construction of the rooms to maintain a minimum temperature.

Five coolers and freezers where furs, eggs, fresh meat and smoked meats were preserved, were inspected.

It was learned at the Statler today that the royal party left a sum of money there, to be divided among employees who had rendered service to them. Elevator girls, bellboys, and waiters who served food to the servants of the party, got $1 each, and the maids in charge of the rooms got $2 each.

A PROMINENT PHYSICIAN CURED OF

Rupture

BY DR. LEWIN'S NON-SURGICAL TREATMENT EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO

To Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that I have been suffering from a very severe and painful rupture, produced by a kick of my horse many years ago. I had just decided to be operated on for this rupture when I had the good luck of meeting a brother physician in the hospital who strongly advised me to be treated by Dr. Lewin. I followed his advice and I am happy to state that after being treated for two months only, I am now convinced that I am perfectly and I firmly believe, permanently cured, for which I am very thankful and grateful to the doctor.

Profiteering
by inferiority

WHEN raw materials and labor cost more, the finished product costs more. And "costs more" has to go all the way thru to the consumer; it just has to, or business stops

But profiteering is another thing; it charges more in proportion to cost than a fair margin; or worse, it charges more for merchandise that is not up to a high grade. That's the meanest form of profiteering

Vacuum Pipeless Furnace

(The Pioneer Patented Pipeless Heater)

¶ A wonderful heating and ventilating plant that can be installed in an old or new home in one day. Saves one-third in fuel and costs less to install.

¶ Over 15,000 are in use and giving the greatest of satisfaction and comfort. Every Furnace absolutely guaranteed.

¶ The Vacuum Pipeless Furnace is not a pipe furnace with the pipes left off, and neither is it an experiment, hastily put together for the purpose of meeting a demand. It is specially designed and built from the ground up to uniformly heat and ventilate buildings more economically and satisfactorily than they have ever been heated by other systems.

¶ Its principle of operation is very simple and is based upon the natural law that warm air rises and cold air falls. The patented features, which are used only in the Vacuum Pipeless Furnace construction, make possible the complete and constant re-circulation and sterilization of the air in the buildings where Vacuum Pipeless Furnaces have been installed.

¶ By the proper application of this principle in the Vacuum Pipeless Furnace, it is possible to heat from one to twelve rooms with only one register. This register is a combination of cold-air intake and warm-air outlet. In the same volume that the warm air is distributed into the house an equal amount of cold air is drawn into the furnace, where it is heated, moistened by the vapor from the 2½-gallon water-pan and then re-circulated through the register. This process continues as long as the fire is kept burning.

¶ In one day the Vacuum Pipeless Furnace can be installed in old buildings without the necessity of costly remodeling. It can also be placed in new buildings with less trouble and expense than any other type of furnace manufactured.

¶ Burns hard and soft coal, lignite, coke, wood and all other furnace fuels. Every pound of fuel consumed in the Vacuum Pipeless Furnace firepot delivers a maximum supply of heat to the floors above. We can thereby guarantee a saving in your fuel bills.

¶ The low cost of the Vacuum Pipeless Furnace has placed this healthful, safe, sanitary and efficient system of heating within the reach of thousands of people who have previously been forced to rely upon inadequate stove heating.

¶ A sample of the Vacuum Pipeless Furnace is on display in our Stove Department, Fifth Floor. Come in and look it over. Ask or write for free catalogue, prices and information. We are the sole agent for Saint Louis.

"Can't Cut Off My Leg" Says Railroad Engineer

"I am a railroad engineer; about 20 years ago my leg was seriously injured in an accident out West. Upon my refusing to allow the doctor to amputate it, I was told it would be impossible to heal the wound. I have tried all kinds of salves and had many doctors in the past 20 years, but to no avail. Finally I received to use PETERSON'S OINTMENT on my leg. You cannot imagine my astonishment when I found it was doing what over 100 things had failed to do. My leg is now completely cured."—Gus Haff, 100 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It makes me feel proud to be able to produce an ointment like that," says Peterson of Buffalo, N. Y. "Not only do I guarantee Peterson's Ointment for old sores and wounds, but for eczema, skin rheum, ulcers, chafing, itching skin and blind, bleeding or itching piles, and I put up a big box for 60 cents at all drug stores, at a price all can afford to pay, and money back if not satisfied."—Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. ## FORCED MINING OF COAL IS PROPOSED IF MEDIATION FAILS

Secretary Wilson Still Believes There Is Way Out of Deadlock Between Miners and Operators.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Miners and operators called here by Secretary Wilson in an effort to settle the coal strike ordered for Nov. 1, still are wide apart today.

After a two-hour conference Secretary Wilson shifted his program by adjourning the miners' group until this afternoon and holding a separate meeting with the operators. He proposed to meet the miners at 2:30 p. m., and to call in the operators again at 3:30 p. m.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared there was no change in the situation. Operators refuse to say what proposal was made to them or if they would recess from their position not to negotiate a new wage agreement unless the strike order and demands for a five-day week were withdrawn.

Wilson States Position.
There was a stormy moment at the meeting when Lewis read from a speech made yesterday by Senator Frelinghuysen, Republican, of New Jersey, who quoted Secretary Wilson as saying before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee that the miners had made impossible demands. The secretary replied that the committee meeting was executive and that only part of his statement had been repeated by Senator Frelinghuysen, adding that he had said demands by both sides were impossible.

Secretary Wilson still believes there is a way out of the trouble. Government officials deferred consideration of other plans for settling the strike until the result of his efforts became known. Should these fail it was said, the Government might step in and force continued operation of the mines so as to give the public an adequate supply of coal at any cost.

Opening Conference Brief.
Secretary Wilson explained at yesterday's conference that as the executive officer of the Government intrusted with the function of mediation in such disputes, he felt that every possible effort should be made to induce the miners and operators to see the importance of early adjustment.

President John L. Lewis then spoke for the miners. The old wage agreement, he declared, had expired, and the operators, he charged, had refused to consider a new one.

The side of the operators was presented by P. H. Penna, of Terre Haute, Ind., who charged that the miners had violated their agreement, that the operators had adhered to the principles and practices of collective bargaining, and that the unions were at fault. Then without consulting the leaders, Secretary Wilson suggested an adjournment until today as casually as if the conference had planned to run for a week.

Officials recalled that once during the administration of President Roosevelt when a coal strike appeared certain, miners and operators were warned that if the mines were shut down they would be immediately opened and operated by the Government, with troops on guard, if necessary, to see that the public got an adequate supply of coal. Re-establishment of the Fuel Administration, which ceased to function last spring, also was discussed by officials.

May Be Called Before Committee.
There were reports after today's meeting got under way that Secretary Wilson would attempt to hold representatives of the miners and operators here to appear before the Senate Committee investigating the coal situation in event the conference failed to settle the strike.

Lewis declined to comment today, saying "See Wilson; he is the man of mystery in this proceeding." The demands of the miners are for the "central competitive district," which includes Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Western Pennsylvania. They were adopted as the report of the Senate Committee by the convention of the United Mine Workers of America at the organization's convention in Cleveland, Sept. 23. The demands are for:

Flat increase of 80 per cent in wages, applicable to all classifications of day labor and to all tonnage, yardage and dead work rates.

A limit of six hours upon the day's labor underground.

A five-day week.

Time and a half for overtime.

Double time for work on Sundays and holidays.

A weekly pay day.

Abolition of double shift work in producing coal, with exceptions where necessary for ventilating purposes and development of new mines.

Cutting down of the working time has been explained as a move to provide regular employment for all members of the union throughout the year.

No "automatic penalty clause," as in the "Washington wage agreement," providing an automatic penalty of $1 a day for each miner going on strike against provisions of the agreement and a similar fine for any operator locking out his miners.

All contracts in the bituminous field declared to have expired automatically Nov. 1, 1919. No sectional settlements allowed. Now contracts to run concurrently for two years in all bituminous districts.

Agreements for outlying districts to be retroactive on date upon which agreement for competitive field upon which they are based becomes effective.

SHE WILL BE MARRIED AT CHURCH TODAY

Miss Virginia McDearmon

MISS RUTH COMBS' WEDDING TONIGHT

She Will Marry Randall Dodd in Quiet Ceremony at Her Parents' Home.

A WEDDING of importance will take place at 8 o'clock this evening when Miss Ruth Combs will become the bride of Randall Dodd in a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. George T. Walsh of Houston, Tex., will officiate. Only the immediate families and a few intimate friends will be present.

Miss Combs will have Miss Blanche Turner as her maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be her sister, Miss Margaret Combs, and the bridegroom's cousin, Miss Eleanor Richards.

The color scheme will be lavender and yellow, which will be carried out by the attendants' gowns. Miss Turner will wear a gown of pale lavender georgette made over cloth of silver and will carry a sheaf of yellow chrysanthemums. The two other attendants will wear pale yellow chiffon over cloth of gold and will carry lavender chrysanthemums. Cecil Combs, brother of the bride will act as best man and will be Mr. Dodd's only attendant.

The bride's gown will be of white georgette over white satin. Tiny ruffles coming half way up to the waist decorate the skirt. Her train is of tulle, bound with satin and finished at the bottom with a motif of orange blossoms. The head dress will be a band of the tulle held in place with a tiny wreath of orange blossoms. Her flowers will be a shower of bridal roses and sweet peas. The bridegroom's two small cousins, Ray and Seldon Spencer, dressed in white suits will hold the ribbons, which will form an aisle through which the bridal party will pass.

A small reception will be held at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Miss Combs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford Combs of 4390 McPherson avenue. She received her education at Visitation Convent and St. Mary's Academy near Baltimore. She made her debut three winters ago at a reception and was maid of honor at the V. P. ball in 1918. Mr. Dodd is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mark Dodd and is a graduate of Virginia Military Academy.

Mr. Dodd and his bride will spend their honeymoon in the east.

Social Items

Miss Virginia McDearmon and Clarence Spiegelhalter have changed their wedding plans and will be married at 5 o'clock this evening instead of in a morning wedding, as they had originally intended. The Rev. Dr. John Cannon will perform the ceremony at the Westminster Presbyterian Church in the presence of the relatives of the couple and a few intimate friends. The bride will be attended by her sister, Mrs. C. I. Albach. Henry Menzenworth will serve Mr. Spiegelhalter as best man.

The bride will wear a traveling suit of blue duvetyne, with hat to match, and her flowers will be a corsage of orchids. She is the daughter of Mrs. John Cabanne of the Branscome Hotel apartments. Mr. Spiegelhalter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Spiegelhalter Jr. of 3557 Victor street.

On their return Nov. 15 from their wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 4641 Magnolia avenue.

The thought and care one gives to the choice of the engagement ring are well repaid in the selection of one from among the exquisite gems to be found at Heffern-Neuhoff, Jewelers, Eight-O-Nine Locust—Adv.

The marriage of Miss Marie Van Hoogstrate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Van Hoogstrate of 3236 California avenue, to George Thomas Devereux, will take place at St. Agnes Church Nov. 5. Miss Van Hoogstrate will be attended by her two sisters, Misses Carrie and Garcia Van Hoogstrate. Arthur Devereux, a brother of the bridegroom, will serve as best man, and Frank Devereux, another brother, will be the groomsmen. The ushers will be Robert Devereux and Walter Van Hoogstrate. There will be a small reception for the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Emily Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Ryan of 5373 Maple avenue, and Henry Edward Groner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Groner of 3722 West Pine boulevard, were married at 11 o'clock this morning at St. Rose's Church. A small reception followed at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. M. D. Joyce of 349 Westgate avenue. In the bridal party were the bride's sister, Miss Genevieve Ryan, maid of honor, and Misses Ellen Parle, Anita Moll and Florence Warner, bridesmaids; Louis Brinkworth, best man, and Jean Freymann, Gerald Walsh of Cairo, Ill., and John Philpot Curran.

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

says Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today were it not for the deadly drug, nicotine. Stop the habit now before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just go to any up-to-date drug store and get some Nicotol tablets. Take them as directed and let the pernicious habit quickly vanish. Druggists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting announcement by Doctor Connor soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the danger of nicotine poisoning and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets. You will be surprised at the result.—ADV.

Memorial Park

A Non-Sectarian Burial Park With Perpetual Care.

The Garden Cemetery— An American Idea

Less than thirty years ago, the American idea, the Garden Cemetery or Burial Park—as distinguished from the old graveyard with its crude congestion of grave mounds, quaint and incongruous burial stones, gnarled and ancient trees and overgrown with weeds and shrubbery—was developed.

The most beautiful burial grounds in the world have been the result, contrasting sharply with the congestion of monuments and tombs existing in burial places throughout all the continents of the old world—so-called "Cities of the Dead" and in all of the older cemeteries of this country.

Coincident with the conception of the Garden Cemetery was developed the Permanent Care and Preservation of the same and it is only in recent years that land has been sold with provisions for Perpetual Care.

Memorial Park will be a departure from the old graveyard and will be in the true sense of the word, a Burial Park and will remain a beautiful place of public veneration for all time to come.

G. O. P. CONVENTION NOT PROMISED TO CHICAGO

More Than Half of National Committeemen Pledge St.
Louis a Hearing.

More than half the members of the Republican National Committee have written Jacob L. Babler, the member from Missouri, that they will not pledge their votes on the place for holding the next national convention until the matter formally comes before the committee, thus refuting the claim of Chicago boosters that enough members are pledged to Chicago to take the convention there. Several members pledged themselves to vote for St. Louis.

Their letters were in reply to one sent by Babler asking each committeeman to reach no decision until St.
Louis presented a proposition to the committee.

Babler is counting strongly on the support of John T. King of Connecticut, an active leader in the Wood-for-President movement, to aid St.
Louis.

"It virtually is conceded by everybody," Babler said, "that the cities to be considered for the convention are St. Louis and Chicago.
Illinois has a candidate, Gov. Low-den. Why would Gen. Wood's supporters, Senator Johnson's supporters and the supporters of other candidates want to take their delegations into a Lowden atmosphere which is certain to prevail at a convention in Chicago. They won't."

John T. Adams of Iowa and Jesse
M. Littleton of Tennessee replied to Babler's letter that they favored St.
Louis for the convention. Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, member from Illinois, said that, of course, Chicago was his first choice, but that St. Louis was his second.

H. F. McGregor of Texas wrote:
"It is clear to my mind that it is not to the interest of the Republican party to go to Chicago for the next national convention."

William P. Sheffield of Rhode Island wrote: "I agree with what you say in regard to the attitude of the St. Louis papers toward the party when the committee met there last.
The ability of the editorship of those papers I have long recognized. The hotel situation leaves nothing to be desired and it is a populous and progressive city. I have thought for some time the party ought to do something to free Missouri from its narrow and reactionary Democratic rule."

A number of other committeemen wrote praises of St. Louis but did not commit themselves, though all except Thompson who have replied promised to hold their minds open until the December meeting of the committee and give any proposition from St. Louis careful consideration.

AWAY WITH THOSE ACHES AND PAINS

Keep Sloan's Liniment handy to put the "feel good" back into the system.

ALL it needs is just one trial—a little applied without rubbing, for it penetrates—to convince you of its merit in relieving sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia, lame muscles, stiffness, bruises, pains, aches, and sprains, the after-effects of exposure.
The congestion is scattered, promptly, cleanly, without effort, economically. You become a regular user of Sloan's Liniment, adding your enthusiasm to that of its many thousands of other friends the world over, who keep it handy. Three sizes at all druggists—35c, 70c, $1.40.

NEGLECTED COLDS ARE DANGEROUS!

Dr. King's New Discovery soon breaks a cold and checks a cough

Chills—fever—sneezes—and then a hard cold develops.

Take a little Dr. King's New Discovery when the sniffles start. It will soon check the cold, the cough-provoking throat-tickle. Used everywhere by people who know why it has been on the market for half a century.
Relieves cold, cough, gripper, croup.
No disagreeable after-effects. All druggists—60c and $1.20 a bottle.

Bowels Behind Schedule?

Liver acting lazy? Bring them to time with Dr. King's New Life Pills.
Gentle but sure-acting system cleaners that are tonicky in action and pleasing in results. Still 25c a bottle at all drug stores.—ADV.

How to Banish Wrinkles and Crow's Feet Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, homemade wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered sassafras in a half pint witch hazel—ingredients found in any drug store. Bathe the face in this, three times a day—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation!

The remarkable astringent action of the sassafras so tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. But of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthy tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for six weeks; it cannot injure the most delicate skin.
The treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.—ADV.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied.
You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.—ADV.

NOT A BITE OF BREAKFAST UNTIL YOU DRINK WATER

Says a Glass of Hot Water and Phosphate Prevents Illness and Keeps Us Fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind incombustible ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infect the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before breakfast each morning drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the bowels the previous day's poisons and toxins, and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, flat, breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

ARRESTS FOLLOW FIGHT AT PLANT OF PANTS COMPANY

Strike Pickets and Non-Union Employees Clash When Policemen on Guard Are Called Away.

A clash between strike pickets and non-union employees caused five arrests at the plant of the Epstein Pants Co., 1310 Washington avenue at 8:30 a. m. today. A strike has been under way there four days.

Two policemen who were guarding the door were told that gunmen were in the neighborhood. When they went to investigate this a fight started at the door. Max Inger of 1813 Carr street, a striker, was knocked down and beaten. He was held a prisoner after being treated at the dispensary. Others arrested were Harry Deutsch, 4218 Page boulevard; Samuel and Joseph Wax of 1407 North Sixteenth street, and Isadore Libach of 2711 Sheridan avenue.

Six women and two men were arrested at the same plant at 5 p. m.
yesterday when there was a disturbance.

Among these was Natha Kleiman, 33 years old, who said she was an

Specially
Priced at $45

Specially
Priced at $75

There are ever so many reasons why you should come to this sale tomorrow. The first is because it is a Garland sale. The second reason is that the values in these Coats would be good in normal times, and are infinitely better-than-good now. And—the rest of the reasons are hardly necessary.

With the cost of genuine beyond the means of some, many women are turning to the fur-fabric garments, and to get these at real savings, plus style, Garland's is the logical place to purchase them.

These smart Coats, many of which are new arrivals, are developed of the best silk fur-fabrics. They have large convertible collars of kit coney, ringtail, seal, opossum, racoon and muf-flon. Lined throughout with plain and fancy peau de chine, pussy willow and Sol satin.

ONE of those typical Garland value sales that has had a lot to do with giving us the largest Dress business in the Middle West. A sale at a price that causes wonderment—a value that looks almost impossible in the midst of the unprecedented high cost of materials, and in the face of still higher costs to come.

Scores of lovely new Fall models, developed of excellent fabric, some of which are rarely offered at so low a price. These materials include—

Jerseys—Serges—Tricotines—Satins Georgettes and Satin and Georgette Combinations

The Dresses themselves are remarkable—remarkable in style, originality and in quality of fabric and workmanship. They are remarkable in price because they are worth so much more and you are sure to find many to your liking in this group.

WOMEN PHYSICIANS DECLARE SCHOOL SYSTEM IS ARCHAIC

One of Reforms Urged in Abolition of Examinations — Say Study Should Be Spent of Play.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Abolition of examinations and merit marks as means of inducing children to study was urged at the international conference of women physicians by Miss Grace Palmer, formerly assistant superintendent of schools in Los Angeles. Education should appeal to the child as a form of play, she said. During a discussion in which several speakers termed the whole educational system of the United States as faulty, because the child is regarded as a miniature adult, Dr. Wilfrid Lay of New York said the same methods of instruction were in vogue now as two centuries ago. "The child is just as different from the adult as the caterpillar from the moth," she said, "and it is no wonder that those who are trying to train children as if they were adults are so poorly paid."

"Failure to grasp the mental situation of the child has placed our schools in the position of attempting to feed children fried books or baked knowledge in the same way that they are given fried potatoes. It is a system of cramming rather than of the actual mental needs of the child." The necessity of attention to children's health was emphasized by Dr. Josephine Baker of the Child Hygiene Bureau of New York City. "The human mother," she said, "is the only mother of any species which does not instinctively know how to care for the baby. The human baby is the only baby of any species that is absolutely helpless."

ASTOR FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

Simple Ceremony Held in St. George's Church.
LONDON, Oct. 22.—Simple funeral services were held in St. George's Church this afternoon for Viscount (William Waldorf) Astor, the rector of St. George's the Rev. Francis Norman Thicknesse, officiated. The body was taken to Golder's green for cremation and the ashes were taken to Clevedon for deposit in the private chapel. The new Viscount Astor can make no estimate yet of his father's estate, and has not read the will, although informed of some of its details. He also says the candidacy of Viscountess Astor for his parliamentary seat at Plymouth has not even been considered, although he does not rule it out as impossible. The decision would depend on the feelings of his political committee there. The naval vote is an important element in Plymouth, as is the Labor party, and if the Viscountess stands she will have a "tough fight, perhaps too tough for her health."

Red Blood Makes Best Complexion

Wholesome Complexion the Pride and Glory of Healthy Men and Women.

Pepto-Mangan Makes Red Checks.

Builds Up Tired Bodies—Helps Change Pale Complexions to Bloom of Health.

The healthy, attractive woman—and man, too—with a wholesome complexion is the envy of those who feel that, for them, such attractiveness is impossible.

And yet health and attractiveness are much a matter of good, red blood, and unless a man or woman is afflicted with some deep-seated or serious ailment, vigorous health and personal charm are within easy reach.

Pepto-Mangan is responsible for the present health and happiness of thousands who formerly were thin, pale, languid and easily exhausted. And as a result of the increased supply of red blood that Pepto-Mangan creates, the entire system attains the vigor that belongs to every man and woman.

Pepto-Mangan is prepared in two forms, liquid and tablets. They are exactly alike in medicinal value.

Ask your druggist for "Gude's," when ordering Pepto-Mangan. Look for the name "Gude's" on the package.—ADV.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Farmit (double strength) and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dripping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—ADV.

C. OF C. GETS 253 NEW MEMBERS IN ONE DAY

Campaign Starts for Memberships to Sustain New Promotion Bureau to Be Established.

The first day's campaign of the Chamber of Commerce netted 253 new members. As is known, the chamber is endeavoring to get at least 1500 new members, to yield enough revenue to establish a new production bureau on a scale that will make it effective to increase the prosperity of St. Louis by adding adjacent territory to increase production, particularly of farm products.

The campaign was handicapped yesterday, because workers were aiding the reception to the King and Queen of Belgium, and others were engaged in the Roosevelt Memorial drive. Today a greater number will be working among 7000 firms and individuals who are not now members and whom the chamber considers should be members.
The workers are going about in teams of two to four each for three hours each morning. They report the result of their effort at a luncheon held each noon.
Many letters from out State have come commending the chamber on its organized effort to help the State. "We have told the State that we would put this thing over," Paul V. Bunn, secretary of the chamber said yesterday at the luncheon. "and the eyes of the State are watching to see whether we do put it over." The Chamber of Commerce is tenth among cities of the country in chamber memberships. We believe that the importance of this new work in the center of production of the United States demands that this chamber be first in the country in memberships. The number of new memberships will determine the degree to which the organization can develop this work, which all in St. Louis are agreed. I think, is by far the most important undertaking in the history of the chamber."

DANIELS ABSOLVES ST. LOUISAN OF NAVY DESERTION CHARGES

Man Left Sea Service Without Leave, to Join Army So He Could Get Into Fighting in France.

Clarence Johnson of 5625 Wells avenue has been absolved of navy desertion charges by Secretary Daniels, according to a dispatch from Washington.
Johnson enlisted in the navy at the outbreak of the war and left that service without leave because, he said, he "wanted to fight." He joined the army under an assumed name and served 30 months in France and was honorably discharged from the army. He at once went to navy officials and surrendered and was cited for courtmartial for desertion.
After investigating the case Secretary Daniels decided to drop the navy desertion charge in view of Johnson's creditable record in the army.

If You Suffer the Tortures of Burning Itching Skin Diseases

It's Possible You Can Secure Permanent Relief by the Use of This Prescription Treatment

When your skin itches, you just must scratch and rub, although you well know that the irritation caused will itch all the more and burn like coals of fire. In addition to the suffering and torture, the glands of the inflamed skin will throw off a watery pus that makes the trouble all the more unbearable.

Musky and greasy external applications may stop the itching for a while, but as this diseased condition of the skin is usually caused by an impure state of your blood, a real purifier is necessary, for no real relief can be expected until the blood is thoroughly purified—the poisons, that are causing the unsightly skin disease, eliminated entirely.

As a red blood purifier, Plough's Prescription C-2223 has been used for years and years with great success in the treatment of those conditions of the skin due to an impure state of the blood. This concentrated liquid treatment contains certain medicinal ingredients well known to the medical profession, which eliminate the poisons causing the trouble, purify the blood and make the skin clear and healthy.

In taking Plough's Prescription C-2223, it is very necessary that the liver be active. A very mild cathartic and liver stimulant is prepared especially for use in connection with the liquid prescription treatment—2223 Liver Pills. Three pills a week are all that will be found necessary to keep the liver and bowels in a healthy condition, thereby assisting the treatment in throwing off the poisons.

Plough's Prescription C-2223 can be found at all good drug stores at $1.50 a bottle; the Pills, 25c a package; or the 2223 Laboratory, Memphis, Tenn., will send both postpaid on receipt of $1.75.

Brighten Up Your Home

FOR FALL AND WINTER

The new things in Home Furnishings for the Fall and Winter season are unusually attractive. It would seem that designers are lending every effort to make our homes more colorful and cheerful—an effort which is most welcome.

—Editorial—

Our Country is Much the Most Prosperous Country in All the World.

On my return from some of the largest furniture factories in the North, I think it my duty to inform the public of the conditions.

In Grand Rapids, Michigan, known for its fine factories making dining-room and bedroom furniture, or as the trade calls it, case goods, nearly all had enough orders in their office to keep them busy until next Summer or Fall of 1920.

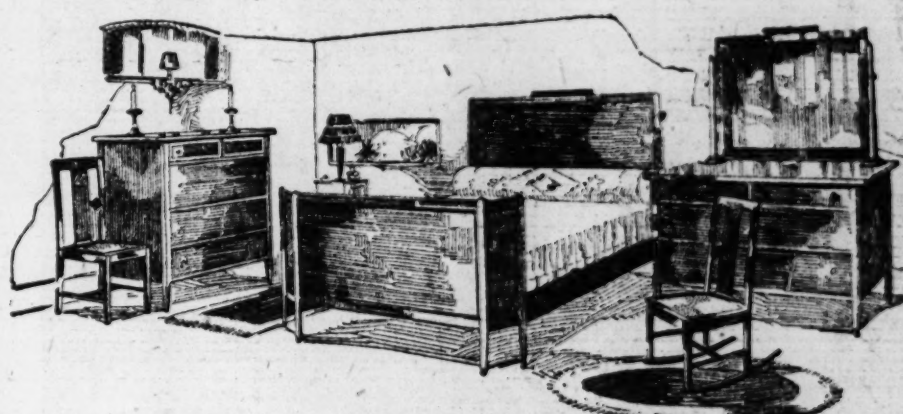

Many factories refused to accept any additional orders at the present time, at any price; and no factory would accept any orders except at the prices prevailing at time of shipment.

We have a limited stock of furniture on hand, purchased at last year's prices, and up-holstered or living-room furniture made in our own factory.

Can you who need furniture now, or in the near future, afford to overlook this stock and these prices? Think it over carefully.

Harry Prufrock.

DRINKWATER DRY, BUT HIS POETRY SPARKLES

Abstract Psychological Essay—Lecture Followed by Charming Recital.

John Drinkwater is dry, as a lecturer, but his poetry sparkles with wit and shines with a polish rare in the days of rough-hewn verse, free and otherwise.

This was the impression which the poet and playwright, author of the drama, "Abraham Lincoln," gave in his appearance last night in the Washington University Medical School auditorium. He made St. Louis a one-night stand, arriving last evening and leaving this morning, though he was followed by literary folk in various longer.

The announced theme of his lecture was "The Nature of Drama." He read, for a little more than a half hour, a psychological essay on the drama of character and idea, as opposed to the ordinary stage success, which he said are based on "artificial situations unrelated to life," and on chance idiosyncrasies.

He said the commercial theater seldom touched the works of Shakespeare and other masterpieces, and then only to mangle and mar them. The things which commonly attract attention on the stage, he said, are not things that count, but freaks which he compared to a man standing on his head, to snow in July, to a man painting bad pictures with his nose, and to a man "weighing five pounds more than he decently ought."

The dramatists of occasion have injected the theater, he declared. Managers say there is no public to support art works, though the public itself shows the contrary when it gets a chance.

He expressed despair as to reform in the commercial theater. He said the prosperous stage of Charing Cross and Broadway could not be expected to render genuine service to art, and that those who desired such service should render it themselves, by building up another stage which will encourage sincere work, though it may not always be perfectly presented.

From this theoretical talk, which seemed at times to bore the speaker himself, the audience was suddenly whirled into a garden of poetic mastery, as Drinkwater read selections from his books of verse.

Versus Applauded. Wholesome views of life, richness of imagination and beauty of expression were combined in the verses, and they were read in rhythmic fashion, though perhaps too largely in a monotone. The poems pleased the audience, and hearty hand-clapping followed most of the selections. First there was the serious philosophy of "A Prayer," with the petition, "Grant us the will to fashion as we feel. Grant us the strength to labor as we know."

Then there was the light comment on the homely virtues of the old lady next door, of whom it was recorded, "Good-morning, Mrs. Malins."

A "Primal Confessional," in which the recurrent prayer is "Forgive me, Love, Forgive me, Death," was followed by this ballad, inspired by an inscription on an English tombstone:

New System of Fat Reduction

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo—Obesity. The saying that "there is nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of illness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-dissolving elements discovered by one of our foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority, there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bedtime, they help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy. Without dieting or exercise, Marmola's Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system, do for you what bodily exertion and self-routine is good for. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. You can prove it at this address: Marmola's Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent postpaid by the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. A large case—sufficient to bring lasting results—is but $1.—ADV.

80 Years Old—Attributes Health To Internal Baths

Mr. D. G. Newcomb, 704 N. 4th av., Atchison, Kan., writes Dr. J. H. I. Cascade, New York as follows:

"My next birthday is July 10th—80 years old. Have used Dr. J. H. I. Cascade for more than 20 years. Best and only remedy that brings relief without the use of drugs. My experience proved that it always relieves. No danger from it. My ailments were principally Uric Acid, Biliousness, Constipation, etc."

This is by no means an exceptional letter for Dr. J. H. I. Cascade's Hygienic Institute to receive, as there are now over half a million Americans using Dr. J. H. I. Cascade's Hygienic Institute.

By the scientific use of Nature's cleanser—warm water—it eliminates all poisonous waste from the lower intestine and gives Nature a chance to work unhampered.

You will be astonished at the difference in your feelings the morning after an internal bath.

The "J. H. I. Cascade" will be shown and explained to you by Judge & Dolp Drug Co. Stores in St. Louis, who will also give you free, on request, an interesting booklet by Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell, "Why Man of Today is Only 50% Efficient."

Get this booklet and know just why Internal Bathing is so effective in the promotion of better health.—ADV.

Anthony Crundie of Dorington Wood played on a piccolo. Lord was the play for seventy years, of shaves that stood under the jerry and cider tree. Under the jerry and cider tree. Anthony Crundie, R. I. P. And because he prospered with sickle and scythe. With cattle and sheep and laboring ewe. Anthony was uncommonly built. And played, of a night, to himself and his. Anthony Crundie, eighty-two. The earth to till, and a time to play. And Susan for fifty years and three. And Dorington Wood at the end of the day. May Providence do no worse by me. Anthony Crundie, R. I. P. He read, also, two of the poetical interludes from his prose play, "Abraham Lincoln." This play, his best-known work, attained its success in the out-of-the-way Hammer-smith Theater in London. The author has said that he obtained his material chiefly from Lord "Charnwood's" book on Lincoln, a work not widely known in this country. He has announced that he is working on plays on two American characters, Robert E. Lee and John Brown, and two English ones, Cromwell and Mary Stuart. He considers the life of Theodore Roosevelt an attractive theme for a play, but thinks it too early to write such a play.

How to Help Stage Art. A Post-Dispatch reporter asked Drinkwater for a more practical application of his views on the theater than had been made clear in his lecture. He was asked how the art theater can be built up in St. Louis and in smaller places. He replied that, wherever a few persons desire an art theater they should get together and start one, using the best material they can find, and not being discouraged by imperfections in their work, so long as that work is sincere and is an expression of vital ideas. This, he said, was the way that he and others had worked in his home city of Birmingham. He said he had done 14 years' work in English repertory theaters, including the work in Birmingham, which he termed propaganda. He said he was not yet familiar enough with the working of the little theater movement in this country to discuss it.

Drinkwater spoke chiefly of London theaters in his censure of the commercial stage, but said conditions in New York were similar. Speaking of English dramatic critics, he said some of them meant to be honest and were not directly hampered in their expressions, but that the capitalist stage had imposed its power on most of the critics, whom he termed "bewildered or incapable public guides."

Church Forgives, Court Sentences. Special to the Post-Dispatch. TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 22.—A more forgiving spirit was shown by the Mennonite Church at Lehigh, which owns the Menno State Bank, toward

J. L. Richter, former cashier of the bank, than by the District Court of Marion County. Richter was charged last May with a number of forgeries of names of members of the church, who are depositors in the bank. The church formally forgave him and received him back into full fellowship, but when he entered a plea of guilty to third degree forgery this week, he was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary.

There's a new city being built in St Louis!

NOT near St. Louis but within St. Louis is being built a city about two-thirds the size of Little Rock. An industrial city of busy factories, towering smokestacks, paved streets and happy homes! When completed this vast industrial settlement on North Union Avenue will give employment to 14,000 men, representing a family population of approximately 50,000 people!

This is but one of the miracles accomplished in this city in large part through the co-operation of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce—one of the valid, visible, common-sense reasons why you, as a representative citizen, should belong to this earnest, aggressive, loyal body of civic workers—the men of vim and vision that put St. Louis right in the middle of the map!

A brand-new campaign of immense scope is now contemplated—a plan to unite the city and its surrounding territory into one great co-operative whole! St. Louis helps the farmer to grow bigger, better crops and herds. The farmer reciprocates by shipping his produce to St. Louis—and both prosper accordingly. It's the simplest, surest, fairest plan imaginable!

It will proportionally do as much for St. Louis as a thousand industrial plants!

But—it must have the hearty, unselfish, enthusiastic co-operation of every business man in our city!

It will require the biggest, liveliest Chamber of Commerce of any city in the United States—at least 6000 members and all active! There are probably fifty thousand business men in St. Louis available for membership. Surely from this number, one out of every eight will be public spirited enough to further this vital and momentous plan by enrolling as one of the Six Thousand! How about you? As a front-rank citizen do you realize what this means to you?

Here's your chance to join with the men who do things! Fill in, sign and mail this application today. Don't wait for the membership committee to call upon you.

PARTIES SOON TO PICK PRESIDENTIAL ENTRIES

McAdoo, Palmer and Gov. Cox of Ohio Listed as Possible Democratic Candidates.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Those who don't make politics a profession may have overlooked a fact of which the politicians are daily becoming more acutely aware—the fact that the presidential campaign is about to begin. Under the surface of more obvious events, the campaign has, indeed, been in progress for some time, but in about two months, when the two national committees meet here to pick their respective convention cities and dates, it will come to the top.

The Republican committee will assemble in December and the Democratic, it has just been announced, will come together the following month, probably on the seventh and eighth. If any candidate of either party is still under cover at the conclusion of the committee meetings, he will have but a short time thereafter in which to emerge. Feb. 14, St. Valentine's day, will be "show-down" day. North Dakota makes it so. In that State, a presidential primary will be held on Mar. 16, the last day for the filing of names will be Feb. 14. Most of the 21 States having presidential primary laws will not vote until April and May.

William G. McAdoo, Attorney-General; A. Mitchell Palmer, and Gov. Cox of Ohio, continue to be the three Democratic contenders most talked about. McAdoo's campaign is being handled by Barney Baruch. There are those who say that the President's industrial conference, though not called with politics in mind, nevertheless will serve the political purpose of setting the administration before the public as in favor of collective bargaining. This result is eminently to be desired by Baruch in behalf of McAdoo. As for Palmer, his stock will go up or down as the cost of living goes down or up. Palmer has announced that he will visit foreign States in the interest of the campaign to reduce the cost of living. If he were not actively in the race for the presidency, it seems likely that he would leave this task to subordinates. Gov. Cox undoubtedly has the edge in Ohio, though Pomerene-for-President literature is helping to congest the mails. On the Republican side it is a free-for-all. The party leaders, according to the present outlook, will discourage any movement tending to send any one candidate into the convention with a majority of delegates pledged to him. The idea, apparently is to apply the yardstick in the convention itself.

Warns Druggists Not to Get Caught Napping

Says Stock Up Now With Begy's Mustardine, the Quickest Pain Killer on Earth, and Don't Disappoint Your Customers.

Sale Is Guaranteed So You Are Fully Protected

Newspaper advertising in this section on Begy's Mustardine will start in a few days.

This is a big seller wherever advertised because it is the original and quite the best improvement on the old-fashioned mustard plaster. In this open letter to druggists, S. C. Wells & Co. of Le Roy, N. Y., who are also makers of Celery King, Dr. Carter's K. and B. Tea, Shiloh, etc., wish to state that druggists who stock up now will be fully protected as the sale is guaranteed to all who buy it, and all unsold goods can be returned at any time.

When you stock up with Begy's Mustardine, Mr. Druggist, you can heartily recommend it to your customers, for it subdues inflammation, stops congestion, eases all soreness and banishes aches and pains quicker than anything else on earth.

Tell your customers to use it for sore throat, tonsillitis, cold in chest, bronchitis, neuritis.

For rheumatism, gout, lumbago, swellings, neuralgia, explain to them that for sprains and strains there is nothing so good, while for headache, backache, earache and toothache it is simply marvelous.

DOCTORS USE CALOTABS FOR COLDS AND FLU

Influenza and Grippe, Like Ordinary Colds, Require Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Nauseless, Safe and Sure.

Physicians and druggists claim that the great epidemic of influenza has conclusively demonstrated that the quickest relief for a cold and the best preventive of influenza and pneumonia is to keep the liver active so that the digestive organs may be in perfect condition. For this purpose Calotabs, the new nausealess calomel tablets that are free from the sickening and weakening effects, is the most thorough and dependable, as well as the most agreeable laxative.

Calotabs have the special advantage of not making the patient sick and weak, as they do not upset the digestion and appetite. One Calotab at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure, or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast.

For your protection Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price 35c. Sold by all druggists and your money back if you are not delighted with them.—ADV.

10-rib protection against Spanish influenza!

ARMY surgeons compelled soldiers to wear heavy underwear during the epidemic of "Flu" last winter. In the camps where the greatest precautions were taken, a much smaller percentage contracted the disease.

Keep the body warm, avoid a run-down vitality, and germs of "Flu", Grippe and Colds will have small chance with you. That is why the 2 extra ribs per inch in Mayo Underwear for Men and Boys are so important this winter. Except high-priced underwear, Mayo is the only underwear with 10 ribs to the inch instead of 8.

Mayo Underwear for Men and Boys is health protection. Figure it out yourself—2 extra ribs in every inch that covers your body.

Your husky young boys no longer fight against changing to winter weight—no scratch or tickle—soft and downy, that's 10-rib Mayo Underwear.

And you'll find your Mayo Underwear as elastic as it is soft and warm—with 10 ribs to the inch instead of 8. Of course 2 extra ribs to every inch are bound to say to your busy body, "We put more cozy stretch and give in every little movement."

Of course 2 extra ribs per inch put longer life into Mayo Underwear—and your underwear dollars.

But perhaps the biggest reason of all for going to the dealer who features Mayo Underwear, in this year of high prices is Mayo 10-rib Warmth at an 8-rib Price.

Nature is lulling you into a false security with her soft balmy days. Better see the Mayo dealer today and get Mayo before Jack Frost gets you.

WINTER UNDERWEAR FOR MEN AND BOYS

Thousands Can Own the New Economic Six

AMERICAN inventive genius has triumphed again. Efficiency has cut dollar after dollar from the cost of production. A series of typically American forward steps have made this possible and have thereby greatly increased the buying power of the average man's automobile dollar.

Here is a remarkable automobile, moderate in cost, light in weight, easy to handle, remarkably safe and economic; yet a smart classy car, possessing all of the easy-riding qualities of a big, luxurious, heavy car, a Six with Pride of Ownership stamped all over it.

Naturally the question is, "How is this possible?"

And the answer is: "Radically New, but thoroughly tested and proven Principles of Construction—and Quantity Production."

A new type of three point Cantilever Spring Suspension gives this 112-inch wheel-base car the rolling ease and freedom from road-shock of a car of 142 inch wheel-base. The wheels also hug the road-bed, avoid side-slip, and lunging ahead.

The chassis is a marvel of simplicity and lightness. Weight is approximately 2100 pounds. Lightness, combined with new efficiencies developed in the engine, get big results from gasoline, averaging 17 to 20 miles per gallon during the 200,000 miles of testing.

Quality is inbuilt—over two years of testing demonstrated it.

The plant, where the new six will be built, is as wonderful as the Six itself, and occupies close to two million square feet of floor space. Every modern and new device is employed to save labor, increase accuracy, and reduce manufacturing costs—the result is big production—400 to 500 completed Sixes per day.

The new Six is the fourth great industry to be added to the enterprises of the Willys Corporation. The Electric Auto-Lite has been placed on over 1,400,000 automobiles and is easily the leading starting and lighting equipment of today. New Process Gears are standard with most of the great manufacturers of automobile, trucks and tractors—making the Willys Company one of the great leaders in the Gear Cutting industry. The Willys-Light, although a new unit of the business, booked orders for 20,000 sets of farm and house lighting systems during the month of August alone.

The factories of these units—at Toledo, O., Syracuse and Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—together with other controlled and closely allied industries, will supply practically everything needed for the new Six that is not produced in the parent plant itself.

Anyone desiring further information about the plans and the car program of the Willys Corporation should write for our booklet.

Total collections Monday and Tues-audience was not numerous, but it was friendly.

His program consisted of the Bach-Busoni "Chaconne," Debussy's
"Clair de Lune," Liszt's Twelfth Hungarian Rhapsody, five of Grainger's own creations from folk-music, and four novelties by contemporary composers, a "Humoresque" and a "Prelude, de Profundis," by H. Balfour Gardiner; a "Prelude," by Alexander L. Steinert, and a sprightly, amusing, "Juba Dance," based on a negro theme, by R. Nathaniel Dett.
The pianist gave four encores, two at the end of the program—his own
"Irish Tune from County Derry" and "Maguire's Kick," an intermezzo by Brahms and Grieg's "To the Spring."

NEW YORK PUBLISHERS' PLANS

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Plans were on foot by New York periodical publishers today to break the pressmen's strike by temporary publication of their magazines in cities far removed from the trouble zone. It was understood that a large amount of the work would be taken temporarily to Cincinnati.
Overtures to end the strike were reported to have been made yesterday by officials of the Pressroom Executives' Association. The envoys were informed, it was stated, that the only terms on which the strikers and workmen locked out could obtain re-employment were renunciation of their independent local and affiliation with the international union from which they recently seceded.

Help Your Stomach

Your food distresses you. Nothing you eat seems to agree with you.
Your head aches. You are always tired. You have a bad breath, and a bad taste in your mouth. You are listless and depressed. You feel generally disgusted with life. What you need is Eupesia Tablets. You have indigestion.

And you can't get rid of indigestion until all the food in your stomach is completely digested. Eupesia Tablets will promptly do this.

But to cure indigestion you must restore the digestive organs to perfect health.

That is what Eupesia Tablets do.
They relieve the stomach by digesting the food just as a healthy stomach would digest it. At the same time they restore almost immediately the disordered digestion.

Eupesia Tablets strengthen the natural action of the stomach surface. And by preparing the food for proper assimilation they enable the stomach to take the nourishment into the system and convert it into blood.

No matter how many remedies you have tried. No matter how severe or of how long standing your indigestion may be, Eupesia Tablets will restore your digestion completely. That is our guarantee.

THE TEST IS FREE

Dyspepsia and Home Life

What a Relief When All the Family Eat the Same Food! Avoid Dyspepsia, Sour Risings, Gas—Indigestion From Breakfast Sausage to Dinner Mince Pie.

After mother has struggled two or three hours over a hot fire to do the cooking for a hungry family, it is real enjoyment when there isn't a dyspeptic jinx among them. Of course, a case of dyspepsia or daily indigestion must be looked after. But it is far more to the point to prevent as well as to treat sour stomach, belching, water brash, etc., by such a valuable means as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Foddering the stomach with soft food and predigesting stuff merely invites sluggishness.

Each your little pork sausages for breakfast without fears; have a plate of beans and a piece of pie with cheese for lunch, and end the day with a real dinner, instead of a bowl of bread and milk. Follow each meal with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and get right back to your natural self.

These tablets digest food and assist the stomach to prepare the content for assimilation in the intestinal tract. Thus you get the practical relief and help which induces a better appetite and a greater freedom in the selection of foods. You will find Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on sale at any drug store in the United States and Canada, as they are considered one of the stand-bys by the druggist.—ADV.

EASY TO MAKE THIS PINE COUGH REMEDY

Thousands of families swear by its prompt results. Inexpensive, and saves about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "Pinex" and "Syrup" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

GEN. DUPONT HERE FOR 'BOSTON TECH' DINNER

With President of Institute of Technology He Is Seeking to Raise $8,000,000.

Dr. Richard C. MacLaurin, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology ("Boston Tech") and Gen. Coleman Dupont, president of the Alumni Association of the institution, came to St. Louis today to speak at a "tech" alumni dinner for night at the University Club concerning the drive being made to increase the endowment of the school by $8,000,000. An unannounced surprise has been that he will give $4,000,000 of the fund if the remainder raise $4,000,000. Dupont has subscribed $500,000. He previously has given $1,500,000 to the endowment fund.

Gen. Dupont is regarded as an interesting character because of his many enthusiasms. On his last visit to St. Louis he was preaching good roads. He had given the State of Delaware a road running its entire length. He is the former head of the Dupont powder interests, but resigned his connection in 1915, because, he said, he was unwilling to have connection with the manufacture of munitions. He became president of the Equitable Life Assurance Co., and after building the Equitable Building in New York and mutualizing the company, resigned that. He is president of the Morris Plan Bank Association. He once was a National Guard enthusiast, resulting in his title of "General." His most recent activity was the organization of the inter-racial movement, with headquarters in New York.

Idea Is Americanization. The purpose of this move is the Americanization of foreigners without calling it Americanization. It pointed said the movement was founded on the belief that most foreigners resent being told that they are going to be remade from Italians or Scandinavians into Americans.

The inter-racial movement seeks to educate the foreigners to a point where he volunteers American citizenship. The method employed is the sending of moving picture films to foreign colonies, literature telling them what rate of interest they should pay to banks, what rate of foreign exchange on money they are sending to their native lands and information on how to become Americans.

All this is printed in their native language, Dupont said that 32 races are allied in the movement. Informed that good roads in Missouri was one of the projects of the new Production Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, he said: "Give the farmer good roads and bathtubs and increased production will come. Increased production now is more essential than ever. It will puncture the high cost of living."

Dr. MacLaurin said the war had made plain the importance of men being trained to do certain things and that the consequent demand of industry for men trained to do certain things now is many times greater than the supply.

Chemical Experts Needed. "I am constantly receiving letters and telegrams from industry, particularly the chemical industries, and other established in America during the war," he said. "They want experts, experts to tell them how the use of lumber camps can be utilized for making paper, experts to work on the new problems that are arising in the dye industry which is being established in America."

I believe schools such as 'Boston Tech' are fulfilling another function in what is universally recognized to be the chief problem of industry at this time—the adjustment of the reformation of employer to employed. To become a technician, expert, a man must have shop experience. The foundation of his training as an engineer is the performance of manual labor in industry. In that fashion a number of some of the labor viewpoint which is valuable in the days that follows when he stops laboring with his hands and becomes associated with the employer-class."

ST. LOUIS CHAUFFEUR ARRESTED AGAIN ON AUTO THEFT CHARGE

Peoria (Ill.) Man Asks For Investigation After Buying Car Almost New for $500.

Clay T. Crouch, 38 years old, of 3731 Westminster place, a chauffeur, was arrested in Peoria, Ill., yesterday and brought to St. Louis today following the recovery in Peoria of an automobile belonging to Oliver W. Dorr, 2324 Washington boulevard, stolen in St. Louis Sept. 11.

Crouch, at the time of his arrest, was at liberty on bond on a charge of having stolen the automobile of A. M. Melville, 3216 South Broadway, having been arrested in Granite City, Sept. 18, when the Melville machine was recovered in front of a restaurant there. Crouch was identified as one of two men who had been in the machine.

The Dorr machine was found in possession of C. T. Vaughn of Peoria, who said Crouch had sold him the auto for $500. Examining the auto he found it almost new and worth more than $500. He asked for an investigation, which resulted in its identification.

Crouch denies both charges and says he is a victim of mistaken identity.

Army Men Rewarded for Recruits. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—As a reward for activity in securing recruits enlisted men of the army will hereafter be granted furloughs, with pay, at the rate of five days for each recruit brought in. Cumulative furloughs so won may not exceed one month, however.

ONE-LEGGED BURGLAR IS SPEEDY

A one-legged burglar using crutches was discovered yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Melnhard, 1415 St. Louis avenue, in her home when she investigated a noise she had heard in the house while she was in the rear yard. The man ran out of a front door, she said, and in getting away from the neighborhood made as good time as if he had had two good legs. He took with him a diamond ring. Other burglaries reported were in the homes of William P. Sweeney, 5794 McPherson avenue, furs valued at $300, jewelry $100, and $12 cash; Mrs. Emma Howe, 2116 South Grand avenue, $100 jewelry and $30 cash; and the dry goods store of Morris Gale, 1309 North Lettingwell avenue, goods valued at $650.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without giving, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 10c and 25c.—ADV.

Sale Knitted Ties

Kinds
Wednesday.

95c

Today knitted and crochet Ties are the big favorites with well dressed men, and this sale brings the opportunity to secure some of the very finest of these at an exceptionally low price.

There are 930 Ties in all, some termed seconds because of a slight missed stitch, but the greater majority of them are absolutely perfect.

We advise men to purchase a generous quantity of these for their personal needs and WOMEN to anticipate dad's and brother's birthday and Christmas gifts.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

"The Bank Clerk."—Please send name and address, not for publication, but in compliance with our rule against printing anonymous letters.—Ed. Post-Dispatch.

A Miner's View.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Regarding the coming coal miners' strike, if there is a shortage of coal in St. Louis or any other place it is not the miners' fault. I work at the largest mine on the East Side and in the last year this mine (Nigger Hollow No. 2) worked on an average of 10 days a month; my average pay being $47.50 per month. We were willing to work every day and wanted to work.

We go down into the bowels of the earth, risk our lives, are deprived of light and fresh air and should be satisfied to take the wage some experienced mortal considers sufficient for us. Some of those writers that are doing so much kicking because of our demand for our just dues ought to accompany us into the mines for just one day before trying to tell the public about our work and demands.

In regard to the Fuel Administrator's office, as far as the coal operators are concerned it has been dead for some time. Have not the operators and coal dealers raised the price of their coal at their pleasure and no kick made by the press? Do you know that it costs the operators just $1.25 to mine a ton of coal, and do you know that the dealers ask $6.25 and more for this same coal? The fact of the matter is if some of these writers had their way about things concerning the miners, they would allot them about $1 a day, but never say a word about what an enormous price the operators and dealers are demanding for their coal. I guess they are not robbing the public as you say. We are doing by asking for a reasonable wage, considering the risk, etc., we are placed in each day that we enter the mines. We did not demand an increase all during the war and are entitled to it now. If you will watch the game you will find that as soon as there is an adjustment between the operators and miners the mines will work about one-third of the time to keep the coal off the market and the prices up to suit themselves and you hear not a word about a shortage of coal then.

Have Done With Hate!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 The fierce heat and fury of the war is over and the nations of the earth therefore have time for calm and deliberate thinking.

For those who are counted with the vanquished, as well as for those who are called the victors, adjustment is necessary.

When victory is won by those who stand for the right, the victors should surely be broad enough to show magnanimity toward their former enemies, and thus prove that their fight was waged in the interests of humanity.

The word humanity and the word service somehow always go together. But neither the one word or the other has anything in its meaning for which the word hate can be called a synonymy. Since America fought for humanity, since she gave her service for humanity, since she went into the war not because she hated the German nation, but because she knew the methods of autocracy were not for the good of humanity; let our public speakers and teachers speak not of hatred, but emphasize the need of continued consideration for humanity; the necessity of striving to understand and help not only the allies but the Germans. The very fact that they could give their support to the cruel war we have just gone through shows how much they need the kind of help we can give them. A HUMANITY-LOVING AMERICAN.

A Cripple's Complaint.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I notice in your paper where they are going to build a $5,000,000 memorial to Col. Roosevelt. I always was an admirer of Teddy and I don't begrudge it to him, but it should have been given when he was on earth. I also notice that St. Louis' share is $80,000. I think that it would do more benefit by taking a collection like that and disburse it in a way that would do some good for the living. I, myself, am a cripple, also a tubercular, and no one will give me a job nor help me to get an artificial limb so I can help myself. I am not speaking of myself alone; there are a lot of others; and all most of us want is a chance to get in shape so we can get back in harness. You no doubt saw the gentleman that was in our city at the bankers' convention. He had to have a start, and see what he could do. All our cripples could be made self-supporting if we had the chance. A CRIPPLE.

Judge Goode's Appointment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Gov. Gardner is to be complimented upon his selection of Hon. Richard L. Goode for the Supreme Bench. Judge Goode's judicial mind, high character and scholarly attainments well qualify him for this exalted tribunal. All friends of good government will be pleased at his appointment.

J. J. McDONALD.

BE A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MAN.

To double the roster of the Chamber of Commerce is the object of a new popular effort in St. Louis. How many have counted the advantages of membership in this organization? What opportunities does it offer the individual?

More than any club, league, association or other organized body, the Chamber of Commerce has come to be representative of St. Louis life. Its scope includes the business, the philanthropic, the non-partisan civic and communal activities of the town—even certain of its more formal social activities. It has been the Chamber of Commerce which acted for St. Louis in arranging receptions and dinners in honor of distinguished personages and other ceremonious functions, of which we have had so many during the war period. It will continue to act in a similar capacity on like interesting occasions in the future.

The fact that its roster now includes hardly more than 3600 names shows that large numbers of St. Louisans do not appreciate the full privileges of membership. But a formidable percentage of the worthwhile citizens of the town are numbered among these 3600; to be associated with men of this type has benefits. The body has become a clearing house of ideas. It is the headquarters of unofficial activities of very highest importance, as the city hall is the headquarters of official activities. Not to be a Chamber of Commerce man has already come to have some suggestion of disparagement, of aloofness from the larger interests of the time. It will have more of this quality in the future.

But, of course, the great advantage in membership is the voice it gives in important decisions and the potential aid it offers in carrying them into effect. The individual can accomplish little by himself. In association with other strong men in a body having the progressive aims of the Chamber of Commerce, his possibilities of accomplishment are enormously increased. It is a co-operative society which is already paying handsome dividends in betterments and city and State growth.

The effort for an enlarged membership is preliminary to a noteworthy campaign for increased production in St. Louis and Missouri. It is a power now. Doubled membership and doubled revenues will mean much more than a proportionate increase in this power and consequently in usefulness.

If you are a St. Louisan, be a Chamber of Commerce St. Louisan.

WOMEN OF THE RED CROSS CANTINE.

The Red Cross canteen in the terminal yards, which was opened July 2, 1918, was closed yesterday, after a service of one year, three months and 19 days.

In addition to ministering to the inmates of hospital trains, the canteen had served meals and refreshment to more than 300,000 soldiers passing through the city. Thousands of books, magazines, packs of playing cards and other things to relieve the tedium of travel in uncomfortable troop trains were also distributed.

St. Louis has had no more practical branch of war work than this. It has had none which was pursued more unostentatiously and with a less manifest hope of reward in public recognition. Perhaps the community as a whole does not appreciate what it meant to busy women of many responsibilities to be detailed at the canteen from midnight to sunrise, to report, as many social leaders did, for special duty at 2 a. m., perhaps directly after some brilliant function, and spend hours in menial but necessary duties, scrubbing floors and cleansing pots and pans.

From July 2 to the armistice Nov. 11 crowded troop trains were constantly passing through the city. Then, after an interval, the tide changed. Soldiers returning home have continued arriving almost to the present. Preparations for their coming had to be made on a large scale. Their stay was short and to provide for their needs was often an intensive, exhausting work, crowded into a few minutes.

Some of the finest of St. Louis womanhood have been there mothering the boys in uniform. What they did is a cause for pride. Those more than 300,000 soldiers had a pleasant experience with St. Louis hospitality and patriotism which they will retain in mind, which may prove to be a city asset in unexpected ways in future relations with the West and Southwest and other sections.

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S HAT.

All photographs of the Queen of Belgium, from the time of her arrival in New York to her visit to St. Louis, after a tour across the continent to the Pacific, show her majesty wearing the same turban. Far be it from any of us to even harbor the suspicion that King Albert's consort possesses but one hat. We hazard the opinion, however, that it is a most charming bit of headgear, that it is vastly becoming, and that the owner shows royal good sense in getting her money's worth of wear out of it.

In these days when even a high school girl has to have at least three hats for fall and winter it is comforting to know there is one woman in the world, even though but a humble Queen, who doesn't have to tote around a trunk full of "creations" every time she goes traveling.

MEETING SOUTH AMERICA.

The course of lectures at Washington University on South American trade by Mr. Sebastiao Sampaio, Brazilian Consul to St. Louis, should be of especial interest and value to our business men and to all organizations concerned with the city's upbuilding.

To the United States South American trade is an issue of national importance. That great market, which belongs to us sentimentally and practically, had been dominated by European nations previous to the war. We had defaulted in our opportunity and also in our obligation. For there is more to South American trade than just a profitable exchange of goods. Correct trade relations with South America mean social relations, an interchange of ideas and ideals, a cultural broadening in which both Americas will profit educationally as well as financially.

Trade is the first step in this social extension and development of the Americas. Mr. Sampaio is familiar with the customs, needs, preferences and idiosyncrasies, if you please, of South America. He is equipped to tell us what to do and what not to do to win the commercial confidence of those neighbors of ours and, afterwards, their friendship.

As is well known, this question of South American trade is engaging the earnest attention of our country's leading financiers, manufacturers and merchants. One New York banking house has already established branches in several South American cities. Business and borne fruit five times the past season is too amply houses have sent sales managers and salesmen intobitions to belong to the union.

that field. But to St. Louis the proposition should make a direct appeal because this city is the natural gateway to a vast part of that territory. When the Mississippi River comes into its own, as it will, it will link St. Louis and the Valley with South America.

All this is not going to happen of its own volition. We have got to work for it. The trade of South America can be won only by the same efforts and energy exerted in the winning of any trade territory—by learning the needs of that market. That knowledge, in a broad way, can be gained in the weekly lectures which Mr. Sampaio is giving. Our far-seeing business men should avail themselves of the opportunity that has been brought to their doors.

MR. GARY'S SOPHISTRY.

Judge Gary's statement to the industrial conference as a member of the public group was interesting and plausible. For example, the following:

As unorganized labor, which embraces the vast majority of the working people, has no special representation in this conference I deem it appropriate to say that all labor should receive due consideration and that it is the obligation, and ought to be the pleasure, of employers at all times and in every respect to treat justly and liberally all employees whether unorganized or organized.

Nobody can take exception to such sentiment. But between what Judge Gary conceives as "ought-to-be" and the stern facts there is a sad and terrible difference. Judge Gary has pictured an ideal condition of employment, brought about by perfect employers. It has not existed in fact.

The truth is that one of the basic principles of incorporated industry has been the grim economic formula of the "greatest possible returns, for the least possible expenditure, in the shortest possible time." Harsh and forbidding as that formula may look from the present viewpoint, it was only recently the orthodox postulate of economists, accepted as sound in theory as well as in practice. From this formula came the importation of thousands of ignorant foreigners by the Steel Trust and other big corporations—now the chief menace to orderly progress in America.

It will probably be agreed that no individual employer is indictable for accepting that formula, but it ought to be clear to everybody that the answer to the practical application of that formula is organized labor. The progress which labor has effected in wages, in working conditions, in the standards of living, has not come from the generous, finely ethical impulses of employers; it has been wrought by the persistence and strength of organization.

The conclusive argument for organized labor is found in a comparison between the wages and working conditions of organized labor and those of unorganized labor. Had Judge Gary's delectable "ought-to-be" been a condition, not a theory, there would have been no necessity for organized labor, since the things it has had to fight for would have been voluntarily granted.

There is no sense in deceiving ourselves with soothing sophistry. The history of incorporated industry, as regards the relations between employer and employee, was clearly and concisely put by John D. Rockefeller Jr. in his statement to the conference. He showed how the old personal friendship between employer and employee of primitive industry had inevitably been swept away by the gigantic enterprise of modern times and in its place had come the impersonal relations. Blaming nobody, but facing things as they are, Rockefeller recognized that labor has had to organize, that the organization of labor is a necessary and post corollary of organized capital, at least until some basis of partnership is accepted by both labor and capital.

That organized labor has made many serious mistakes nobody can deny. At present there are many evidences that its power has gone to its head. Opposition to the tyranny of organized labor, to its unfair demands, to its policies adverse to the public welfare, will have the support of public opinion. But Judge Gary is an unconvincing spokesman and an unfortunate leader for capital at this juncture. He would blot out ugly facts with pleasant sounding platitudes. He is looking backward. The captains of industry and labor today should be forward looking men.

It is a costly distinction to get your name in the Waters' Who's Who.

WHY SENATORS TALK.

All our Senators are talkers. Most of them are super-talkers. Most of them, too, started out with the gift of gab. Without it, perhaps, they never would have become Senators. But it is not until they have been duly inducted into office and served their brief, conventional novitiate of silence that they exhibit their astonishing capacity for oratorical Marathons.

It is a tactum, or, anyhow, a halting, Senator that can't baffle away as endlessly as the running brook. An eight-hour speech is a trifling incident in the career of a Senator. La Follette, for example, could just about whet his forensic knife in that period. The New York Sun professes to be mystified about it. It wonders if there may not be something in the air of the Senate chamber that makes for volubility. Its speculations, we think, are wide of the mark.

It is possible, of course, there is an unclassified germ of loquacity in the senatorial environment, but the explanation for the prolonged nonstop flights of the Senators, in our opinion, may be found in the dotting attitude of the press.

Just what would be the fate of a man who perpetrated a 10-hour speech, say, in the unofficial realm of life, is not pleasant to contemplate and not difficult to perceive. A violent and deserved death would be his. But a Senator may pour out language from early morn till dewy eve and right around to the next sunburst, and instead of being denounced in terms appropriate to his crime, assuming that such terms had been invented, he is frequently lauded by the papers.

It is the puerile tolerance, in many instances the guilty connivance, of the press that accounts for the garrulous frightfulness of our Senators. And possibly no journal has been more guilty on this score in recent days than has the esteemed Sun. The twang of Lodge, the rolling profundities of Borah, the tumbling torrents of Reed, the deep-bayed reverberations of Johnson, the attenuated gloom of Knox—the whole dreadful melange—has had an approved, applauded place in the Sun.

The diagnosis of the senatorial gas barrage as here submitted—well, you may not see it in the Sun, but, just the same, it is so.

The Greenfield (Mo.) pear tree that has bloomed and borne fruit five times the past season is too amply

THE SHIPPOCK.

NAVAJO Indian woman weaving blankets at the Arts and Crafts Exposition recalled to me the Shiprock.

She said she came from the Shiprock Agency. Did I know where that was? Dear me—did I know where that was! Did I know where that great rock goes sailing, sailing.

Like a ship full-rigged. Through the mists of the desert!

"Yes," I said to her, "I know where the Shiprock is."

And she looked at me as one might at a new-found friend.

"You have been to the Shiprock?" she asked.

"Yes," said I, "I have been to the Shiprock."

I have watched it sail "Like a painted ship on a painted ocean."

I have sat on my horse 50 miles away and seen fierce pirates carrying bell-muzzled pistols running around on its decks."

That, of course, made us acquainted.

You know how it is to meet someone who knows and loves your homeland.

It had been many years since I had seen the Shiprock.

But I had never forgotten.

One does not forget the great, beautiful things.

I could still see the blue mountains across in Arizona.

And the sun going down in that chaos of rock and color where the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River begins.

I could still see the green pastures down by the San Juan River.

I could hear the chant of the dance.

And see the great flocks of sheep in the green vales.

"I suppose it is all pretty much as it always was down there," I said.

"Oh, yes," she replied. "We have more educated Indians on the reservation."

The schools are bigger and better.

And there are automobiles now where there were nothing but ponies.

But that is all.

Things do not change very fast down there."

No, thank heaven.

The great Shiprock still sails the mists of the New Mexican desert.

The bluff wall of the Mesa Verde, where the cliff dwellers lived.

Rises across the river in Colorado.

As if reflecting the glories of the Painted Desert.

And that is still.

As it has been for years.

A quiet pool between the great currents of life across the West—

A place little known and seldom seen.

With the ever beautiful and indestructible Shiprock sailing

Through the mists of the desert.

So that was where she came from—

The Shiprock!

Well, as long as one must be from some place, Why not be from a place worth while?

What with men looking for the King, the women looking for the Queen and the girls looking for the Crown Prince, we had something of a lively look in St. Louis yesterday.

PERSONS CAREFUL TO REMIND US THAT THE THINGS

said of Mr. Wilson were all said of Mr. Lincoln and Gen. Washington may be very good historians, but they are not very good students of human nature. That is, no one engaging in calumny of Mr. Wilson is going to be shamed by reminders that Mr. Lincoln and Gen. Washington, both of whom tried to do something for humankind and succeeded in doing it, were treated exactly as Mr. Wilson is being treated.

Dislike of Mr. Wilson and abuse of him seem to these people entirely justified by an entirely different sort of situation, and they would be as slow to admit any parallel between this and those other instances as the people who vilified Lincoln would have been admit that they were anything like the people of whom Washington complained that he had charged him even with selling his country out.

The necessities of politics and partisan feeling are always pretty much the same year in and out. Mr. Wilson is no more bitterly attacked than any other public man in his high position has been in a national crisis, nor is he being attacked with any more success than Mr. Lincoln and Gen. Washington were attacked.

The world will forget everything but what he succeeded in doing. It will not know there were ever any such people or publications as Senator Lodge, Senator Borah, Senator Reed, Senator Penrose, Chairman Will Hays, the Nation, the Liberator, or the New Republic, exactly as not one of us knows who the calumniators of Washington were or who did the heavy editorializing.

Want ad from the Globe-Democrat indicating that Ford is becoming even more useful on the farm than has been supposed:

FARM HAND—First-class; must milk and drive Ford. Call or phone L. R. New. : baurth, Oakville, Mo.

Just so the Ford doesn't kick. Otherwise it will probably be hard to get somebody, saith our sign hunter, who knows something about milking.

WORK.

ACK you a wish or a heart's desire, Clothes to cover or coals for fire?

Is there a child of your brood unshod On the city streets or the rural sod?

My trees have borne, each field and plain Has yielded its fruit and its golden grain.

I ask for peace from this great unrest. You trouble my sleep and you tear my breast.

My fires are banked and my chimneys cold, And the product of factory and mill unsold.

In riot and strike, alas! I see But the bitter fruits of our victory.

Troubled and sad for the end I wait, While hand seeks throat in a racial hate.

Was it for this on the fields of France We broke for the world a chivalric lance?

Together you stood in your peerless ranks, Together acknowledged the nation's thanks.

Flannel shirt and the silver spoon Trenched together and needed at noon.

Horny hand and the well-trained brain Shared the glory and shared the strain;

Needed each other and said "was good, This atmosphere of one brotherhood.

Never a time of deeper need Each for the other, should both succeed.

Hapless the ship and doomed the crew Lacking a captain cool and true.

Let those who fashion the molten steel Stop and consider the nation's weal.

Stop and consider a world's distress— What hope can flower in a wilderness?

Who can promise a cup and crust From a field of shells or a streak of rust?

THE MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

THE SHANTUNG DEFEAT.

From the Boston Post.

WHILE it is not very likely that of recent days the friends and proponents of the so-called Shantung amendment to the peace treaty have really expected it to carry—although only a few weeks ago they were shouting that this was that amendment that was certain to be adopted—it is also not very likely that they expected the amendment to get such a tremendous thumping as it received in the Senate yesterday.

The vote, 35 for it to 55 against it, was far more eloquent than have been most of the speeches in its favor. It said something. It told this country and the world that the Versailles treaty is not to be mangled in any such shape as would necessitate its return to the conference. It sent word to Japan that the Senate of the United States would not endorse for one moment such a studied insult to a friendly Power and an ally in war as was this attempted reversal of the explicit terms of the treaty. And it gives notice to the foes of the covenant in the Senate that they may as well abandon all hope that the text of the treaty will be changed in the slightest or that any reservations can be put through that would necessitate any deviation from the President's plain job of exchanging the ratifications of the treaty just as it stands.

Everything now promises to a speedy defeat of the Johnson "six-to-one" amendment whenever it comes up for vote. Reservations may or may not be adopted, but even if they are they will amount to nothing more than explanatory remarks as to how the Senate views various things in the treaty. The treaty stands. The treaty will be ratified. And that is all there is to it.

The sooner the final vote on this matter takes place in the Senate for more than three months the better the people will like it. Senator Hale of Maine told his Republican colleagues a straight truth yesterday when he said, "I think that everybody in the Senate and in the country is sick and tired of the whole debate. . . . If we really want to dispose of this treaty the way to do it is to hold this body to night sessions and force the matter to a conclusion. The country wants action."

Can anybody doubt the fine accuracy of Senator Hale's diagnosis?

WEAPONS IN THE NEXT WAR.

From the San Francisco Call and Post.

FROM time to time facts leak out which show what a cheerful thing the next war is going to be. The German battle planes were nearly all Fokkers—that is, they were made by a Dutch manufacturer named A. H. G. Fokker. This young man (for he is still young, according to a description of him by William G. Shepherd in the New York Evening Post) invented the device for shooting through the propeller of an airplane without stopping it. He was responsible for much of the effectiveness of the German aces. Just before the war closed he had undertaken to manufacture a new kind of airplane. It was to be controlled by wireless. The German authorities intended, he said, to load each one of these airplanes with a huge bomb and send it into the air, under the control of one flying man, who would herd them through the air by wireless like a flock of sheep. He would be able to steer them as he pleased and send them down to earth to just exactly the spot he selected.

This would do away with artillery, and apparently it would transfer the seat of war (if it could still be called that) to the air. But it would make the attacking side much stronger than the defensive, which means that each army would be able to kill off the other's host before the war had even started. More than that, each side would be able to destroy the great cities of the other, and in a war as hotly fought as the last this would probably be done.

So we can be sure that the next war will be interesting.

By HELEN ROWLAND.

"Business"—The Magic Talker, which leteth a man out of all those things which he doth not wish to do, and provideth him with an excuse for all those things which he desireth to do.

VERILY, verily, my Daughter, there be three words in every man's vocabulary, which are an abomination in his Wife's ears, and a red flag to her spirit.

And the first of these is, "Where," with which her ears are assailed, morning and evening, when he searcheth for his THINGS.

And the second is "Listen!" wherewith he prefaceth all his wise counsels and admonitions and priceless advice.

And the third is "BUSINESS!" For lo, "business" is the mantle, which covereth all a man's sins and shortcomings; the peg on which he hangeth all his excuses and apologies; the roller-coaster, whereon he slideth out of all his unpleasant obligations; the drawbridge over which he escapeth the consequences of all his follies!

Oh, to go to! What man pleadeth indulgence for a forgotten promise or a broken engagement, upon the grounds that he hath been SO absorbed in Religion, or in love, or in politics? But when he speaketh the magic word, "Business," lo, all is forgiven him!

Behold, "business" enticeth a man out of the office, during business hours, and keepeth him "tied to the office" AFTER business hours. Business requirith him to sit up all night, upon Saturday evening, playing poker with his clients, and to sleep until noon, upon Sunday mornings, when the family goeth to church.

Business keepeth him away from his wife's teas, and from dull dinner parties, but taketh him out upon the golf links, and to the Lodge and to the Club, that he may forget his business. Business stimulath the mighty masculine intellect, but weakeneth the muscles, so that he is always "too tired," or "too RUSHED," upon business days, to put up the portieres and to provide the lures.

Business requirith him to take the PRETTIEST stereograph to the luncheon, and to feed her upon partridge and alligator pear.

Business causeth him to be late to the luncheon, and to forget his wife's regards and the letter which she gave him to post.

Business leadeth him to the stag party, where the "Wise Boys" are gathered to discuss "the picture" and to advise him to return home in the morning, with a song on his lips, and a hat on one ear.

Business inspirith him to be exceedingly attentive to the rich wife, and exceedingly negligent to the poor wife of the prospective client.

Business absorbeth the mind, so that he heareth not his wife's chatter at breakfast, and is too engrossed in the stock market reports, to heed her "business" and to be lured to the playhouse, or the whist party.

Business refuseth to be lulled by her pleadings, in the evening.

Verily, verily, Business is the magic talker, which leteth a man out of all those things which he doth not wish to do, and provideth him with an excuse for all those things which he desireth to do.

And, in all the days of her life, no wife shall ever discover whether "BUSINESS" is a blonde or a brunette, a golf game, a poker party, a beautiful tournament or an honest day's work!

FAMOUS WOMEN

EVERYONE knows the picture, by David, of Mme. Recamier, called "La Recamier a la Sofa." The reclining beauty in the quality dress of the director's period was just 15 years of age when she was charmed David. What was her secret of youth? A tranquil mind in all phases of life. She was a queen of society by the force of beauty and social fascinations rather than by the force of sheer intellect. She would not knuckle to the great First Consul, afterward Napoleon Bonaparte, nor make her heart his footstool.

When only 15 she had married the rich banker Recamier, 27 years older than herself. Her beauty was so wondrous that in the Church of St. Roche the congregation stood on chairs to see her go to her pew. Her salon was frequented by the great names of the epoch, the Chateaubriands, La Harpe and Metternich.

Not a breath of scandal circulated around the discreet woman. And when misfortune overtook her husband she bore the reverses with calm and the discreet woman.

And her friends never deserted her!

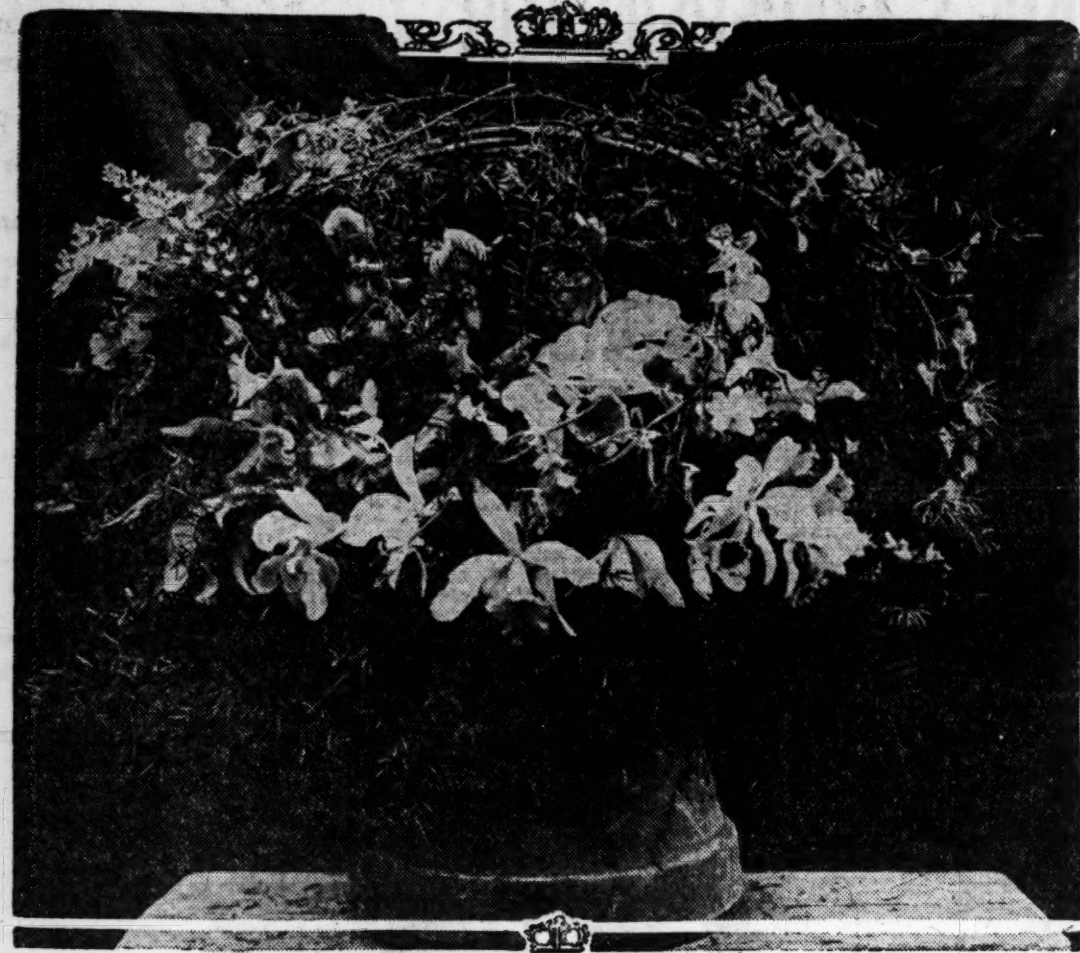

New Foods Being Evolved by American Chemists.

THE menu card prepared by scientists is constantly growing longer, and the next generation will doubtless discuss delicacies wholly unknown to the present. Among the curious things that American chemists are now experimenting with are edible oils from such sources as alfalfa seeds and cockleburrs, according to the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

A new product that promises great usefulness is an ice-creamlike paste prepared by condensing butter-milk. Bread made with this substance browns beautifully at low heat because of the sugar of milk it contains, which also gives it a pleasing flavor and a substantial quality.

Some and perhaps that have sprouted, as well as grains in the same condition, are found to make excellent bread—a fact long known to the Chinese, who use them, flavored with yeast, to make steams.

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S BASKET OF ST. LOUIS ORCHIDS

THE basket of orchids presented to Queen Elizabeth of Belgium yesterday in St. Louis was the rarest collection ever placed in a basket in the United States, and perhaps the rarest assembled anywhere. The basket contained 150 blossoms of 40 varieties from the collection of the Missouri Botanical Gardens, which is the finest collection in America, and is said to compare favorably with any in Europe. It was offered by Dr. George Moore, director of the gardens.

The question of value generally is associated with orchids. The common commercial varieties cost $1.50 a blossom at the florist. The value of the blossoms in the Queen's basket cannot be reckoned, according to G. H. Pring, horticulturist at the garden.

"In the first place," he said, "several of the blossoms could not be duplicated at any price in America, because the garden has the only plants growing in this country. We value our orchid collection at $100,000, but it probably could not be replaced at $200,000. The blossoms in the Queen's basket were the choicest from the rarest plants that were blooming yesterday."

"The blossoms were from plants native to Brazil, Venezuela, Colombia, China, New Guinea, Australia, India, tropical America, Mexico, the West Indies, Burmah, the East Indies and the Philippine Islands. Their colors were brown, green, yellow, white, mauve and pink, in various shades and various blendings."

"Many were from the collection of lady slipper orchids recently given to the garden by D. S. Brown of Kirkwood, which is one of the finest of that variety in the world. Some of the individual plants in the collection have a value of $500. Orchids commonly yield only one bloom a year."

"Perhaps the rarest in the basket was a Thibet orchid, a green and brown orchid, which is exceedingly rare. It first was brought to England from Thibet, but did not flourish, and soon became extinct. A prize of $500 for one of the plants was offered and claimed by a member of a British military expedition. Mr. Brown obtained a plant. There are now three in the collection in the garden, but they are dying. There are no other plants of this species in America."

"There were seven specimens of the Cordillia orchids in the basket. These are natives of Peru and other parts of South America. They grow upon the trunks of trees at an altitude of 10,000 feet, but obtain subsistence from the atmosphere, not the tree. To thrive the temperature of their habitat must never vary more than four degrees, between 60 and 64 degrees Fahrenheit."

"Another bloom in the basket was a Brassia Cattleya, a rare specimen, light pink in color and with a fringed lip. Still another rarity was the yellow butterfly orchid from the West Indies. One of the orchids was a tiny one, with 100 blossoms on one spike, about the size and appearance of lilacs of the valley."

The orchids were sprinkled among asparagus fern in the basket, and twined about the handle were sprays of yellow oncidium, also of the orchid family.

CHINESE WOMEN MAKE AMERICAN CANDY

One of Things Taught at American Y. W. C. A.—Also Hear Child Hygiene Lectures.

CANDY making demonstrations are as liable as not to be the feature of the day at the Thursday afternoon "open house" of the Young Women's Christian Association in Foochow, China. Or, again, it may be a demonstration of how to properly bathe and care for the baby, given by a nurse from a nearby hospital, who brings a life-sized, properly dressed celluloid baby doll with her as an aid to her lecture.

Whichever it is or if it is something else of interest to womankind in general the world over, the Chinese women listen eagerly and intently, and come against the next week if it is possible for them to do so. Sunday afternoons are also open house afternoons at the Foochow Y. W. C. A., and if anything these social times are more popular. The women sing hymns together, drink tea and have a social good time. Usually some one tells a story. There are pictures or a short lecture by some well known person.

ENGLAND HAS WORKING WOMEN'S COLLEGE

PLANS for a Working Women's College are being completed by the National Education Committee of the British Y. W. C. A. This college is not for vocational training. Its object is to increase the worker's personal interest and enjoyment in life, rather than her industrial efficiency.

The Y. W. C. A. announces the plans for this college as a part of the program of reconstruction. Improved living and working conditions for working women are, they think, dependent upon increased opportunities for education. Such attention has been paid to adult education in the past has been almost exclusively for men. Now the Y. W. C. A. feel sure that many women will eagerly avail themselves of the opportunity to continue their studies, possibly interrupted by several years of work.

The curriculum will include courses in social and industrial history, economics, literature, elementary science, hygiene, psychology and religion, as well as in singing, physical culture and applied arts. Every effort will be made to meet the individual needs of the pupils. There will be room for about 20 students.

The college will be open to women wage-earners with ability and the desire for study, particularly those who have not had a high school education. A limited number of scholarships will be offered by the Y. W. C. A., and it is hoped that organizations and individuals interested in the aims of the college will offer others.

The Sandman Story for Tonight

By MRS. F. A. WALKER.
Black Fox and the Witch.

Part II.

LACK FOX ran all the way to the farm on the other side of the forest, there to hide until it was light and then change himself into a turkey, for once in this form he could run along with all the turkeys and fowl until he could entice them far enough from the farm, and then he would change into his own form and catch some of them for his breakfast.

Black Fox could not wait for the day to break to try his enchanted spell, so he wished three times to be a turkey, thinking it would be just as well to be ready when the turkey awoke.

The old witch had kept her promise just as Black Fox had kept his. She gave him the power to change his form, but not into that of a turkey. Instead, when he had wished three times, he found himself a big green frog.

Black Fox began to hop about, trying to find a place to hide while he thought what he should do.

Under a low bush he hopped, but he found he was long for water as he never had before. Not a drop was there to be seen. The only thing to do was to hop along until he found some.

It was not so easy to get over the ground as it was when he was a fox, and while he was stopping to rest Black Fox remembered he had asked for power to change into his own shape again, so he wished three times to become a fox.

The old witch had not kept this part of the promise, for, when he had and as often as he liked, he still remained a frog.

"She must have made a mistake and have given me the wrong drink," thought Black Fox, who said, "I suppose the only thing to do is to get to her cave and ask her to change again."

All day and all night he hopped on and on through brush until when he finally did reach the cave of the old witch, he was so tired that he fell over on his back in front of the cave door.

The black cat found him and began to poke him with her sharp claws and meow so loudly that out came the witch. When she saw the frog on the ground she began to laugh in a shrill, cackling tone and dance about the poor frog, while the cat joined with her mistress, and every once in awhile would poke froggie with her claws.

By and by the wild dance stopped and the witch gave him a tap with her magic stick, which made the frog sit up and listen to what she said.

"You thought you could deceive a witch, did you, Black Fox?" she said. "You see now that you couldn't. I knew the stone you brought was not from the bottom of the pool and I kept my part of the bargain just as you kept yours."

"Give me back my own form again and I promise to bring the stone you wish," said the frog.

"There is only one way in which you can regain your own shape," said the witch, leaning on her stick and looking at poor froggie, "and that is to hop to the forest pool each day and bring me a stone from the bottom of it. When I have all I want you will have your own shape again, and not before. Will you go or will you remain a frog?"

"I'll go to the pool and return with a stone," mournfully replied the frog as he hopped away.

The Curious Quest

By E. Phillips Oppenheim.

CHAPTER X (Continued).

HE walked the pony up the hill, and, by a round-about way, reached the heap of tarpaulins. One or two people were passing, so he waited for a moment under pretext of lighting his pipe. Then he slipped softly to the ground.

"Come," he said, "there's no one looking."

She crept out, and he threw his coat over her. Taking his cap from his head, he handed it to her.

"Throw that hat of yours away," he directed, "and pull this well over your eyes. There's only one thing I can do for you. You can sit by my side here in that overcoat, and I'll drive you anywhere you like that won't take me more than 20 minutes. That's the best I can promise you. I've got my job here to see to."

Her icy cold fingers clutched his hand.

"I won't take longer than that," she gasped. "Quickly, please."

Bliss took his place in the driver's seat and helped her up. She was trembling all over. He buttoned the overcoat up to her throat and pulled the cap over her forehead.

"Which way?" he asked.

"Along the Strand," she begged.

He whipped up the unwilling pony and threaded his way through the maze of farm wagons which were now arriving every few moments, down at last into the Strand. She gave a little gulp of relief when they were clear of the labyrinth.

"Strand?" she asked.

She sat there, leaning a little forward, the overcoat buttoned up to her throat, the cap pulled over her eyes, her face shrouded and invisible. She motioned with her hand along Pall Mall and directed him up St. James' street. They crossed Piccadilly and turned into Berkeley square. Still she motioned him onwards.

"If it's much further," he remarked, "I'm afraid I shall be getting into trouble."

They were at the corner of Grosvenor square when she stopped him.

"Let me get down by that lamp-post," she directed. "You see?"

In the middle of the square a little procession of motor cars was waiting. The lights were flashing from the house towards which she pointed, and a striped canopy ran down to the edge of the pavement.

"Tell me your name," she whispered hoarsely. "Your name?"

"Bliss," he answered. "Ernest Bliss."

"And your address?" she continued quickly. "I shall remember it. Tell me."

"183, Crummo street, Poplar."

She nodded. Suddenly she gripped his hands.

"Good-by," she faltered, "but—thank you, oh, thank you!"

CHAPTER XI.

THERE was a pink glow in the sky just at the back of St. Paul's Cathedral when Bliss drove once more up the hill into Covent Garden.

He found the place which his trolley had occupied taken, and he had hurried to push his way to the front. One by one, however, it came to him that he had not delivered his notes and collected his fruit and vegetables.

"Where's old Mott?" the first man asked him.

"Don't know," Bliss replied. "I was engaged by Mrs. Mott. I heard that Mr. Mott had gone off."

"Gone off," the dealer muttered doubtfully. "The money's all right, I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I suppose."

"I know nothing about that," Bliss answered. "I am a poor fellow."

"Well, I've a pint, anyhow," the man invited.

Bliss followed him into a low, crowded room where men were drinking in the dim light.

"Fair old tartar, Mott," Bliss's new friend declared. "Never was such a chap for speering round. Wonder his missus stands it. She's got the brass, too. 'Ow long 'ave you been at this job, young man?'"

"Not very long. This is my first visit here, at any rate."

"Ought to 'ave been 'ere about 'arf 'our ago," his companion remarked. "As he set down his tankard empty. 'There's been a regular game of 'ide and seek all round the stalls. Some young chap got into trouble at the hall yonder."

"Was anyone seriously hurt?" Bliss asked.

"They've taken a bloke to the 'ospital—saw 'im go by in the ambulance," the man replied carelessly. "Just you tell Mott, young man, that I'd be jolly glad of a cheque on Thursday. Accounts to meet—you know."

He slipped a shilling into Bliss's hand and juched off. Bliss drove back to Poplar. It was now broad daylight, and the pavements were crowded with men and women making their silent way to the scene of their daily toil. Bliss was feeling sick and tired. It was all he could do to guide the pony. He looked forward to his return to Crummo street and its squalid surroundings with absolute loathing. A subtle wave of memory assailed him. Only a short distance away were his warm, luxurious rooms; his large, comfortable bed; his servant waiting to prepare his bath; the cheerful crackle of his fire; the delicious smell of hot coffee. He set his teeth hard. For some reason or other it was one of his weakest moments. The vista of the morning before him had never seemed so hopeless. Then, amidst that cloud of memories, he suddenly saw the face of the physician, the cold, contemptuous curl of his lips; the steady, unflinching glitter of his eyes. He forgot his sickness and sat more squarely upon his seat.

A few minutes later he pulled up at the door of the shop. As he slowly descended, a little stiff from the cold, Mrs. Mott's face appeared from an upstairs window. She was evidently not yet fully attired, a fact which seemed to afford her no concern whatever.

"I've 'ad Mrs. Simpson's boy in to clean the shop," she called out. "You must leave the cart where it is, take the pony into the stable, and come round to the back room, and we'll 'ave some breakfast. We'll unload the stuff later."

Bliss obeyed, and in due course made his way to the back room. Mrs. Mott was already there, wearing a pink flannel dressing gown tied loosely around her. Her hair was in curl papers, the rest of her attire was negligible.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

A RUDE AWAKENING.

When cocktails and flips were abolished,
When brandy went under the ban,
When demijohned booze was demolished
And whisky consigned to the can,
Although we were fond of the latter,
When served in the form of a "ball,"
We cried in our pride, "It don't matter,
We never shall miss it at all."

We learned to take drinks at the fountain,
From dye stuffs and marble dust brewed, (A man can hoist any amount in And never get harny or stewed.)
We learned to rejoice that temptation
No longer pursued human kind
Or threatened the men of the nation
(We had certain parties in mind).

But now, on the eve of Thanksgiving,
When we, with a hungry sigh,
In spite of the high cost of living
Remarked how we yearned for mince pie,
Our Misses, who chanced to be handy,
Observed with the trace of a sneer:
"You know I can't get any brandy
To make my mince pies with this year."

We have never been one with the forces
That labor with sinister zeal,
Employing their baleful resources
To urging the dry law's repeal,
But now we are bitterly anti Whatever would make the land dry;
We can't get along in our shanty
Without our Thanksgiving mince pie.

HIS BIT.
Judging from Tripoli's autobiography
he couldn't do anything during the war but grow his whiskers.
And judging from his picture he did that like a little man.

What Was Lacking.
Mr. Albertson, the architect, had been invited down to the Billingtons to display the plans of Albertson's new house to some guests.
"Now," explained Mr. Albertson,
"here is the front elevation," and he pointed it out on the plans he laid on the library table for the inspection of the visitors. "With the outside window and the circular gallery here; and this is the east elevation, showing the tower."
Various comments were made by the guests, and then little Clarence aged 8, who was greatly interested in the new house, chimed in with:
"And where are the two mortgages father said he was going to put on?"
Judge.

Knew What He Was About.

A member of a national medical association, tells the following story at the expense of a physician:
"Are you sure," an anxious patient once asked—"are you sure that I shall recover? I have heard that doctors have sometimes given wrong diagnoses and treated a patient for pneumonia, who afterward died of syphilis fever."
"You have been woefully misinformed," replied the physician indignantly. "If I treat a man for pneu-

How It Was.

Visitor: Do the revenue officers bother you much?
Moonshiner: Yes; especially since the country went dry; but I've just had to put my foot down and tell them that I couldn't spare them a drop; I'm just able to take care of my regular customers.—Judge.

By Airship.

Mrs. Hoyle: My ancestors came

Some Labor Delegates
Thus Be Appointed
Compensated by S.
Capital's Group Work representative of I ers.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.
The wreck of the National Industrial Conference, President today sought to build a chinery to bring about peace in the country. In a to Chairman Lane he asked public representatives in the ence continue their work
a report to him.

It is the hope of the
and other administration that the public delegates appointed by Mr. Wilson represent both employers
ers, can formulate a program will be acceptable to cap-labor.

After announcing that he received President Wilson's Chairman Lane declared National Industrial Conference immediately called the meeting of the public group into new conference.

Both the public and capital were present at the conference today waiting from President Wilson. S. for each said further delegates were needed since the representatives of organized lawithdrawn from the conference the public delegates were comply with Mr. Wilson's continue their labors. Officially abandoned hope that industrial principles which formulated by the public ing alone.

Capital "Rests Its Case" Whether capital's representatives would assent to the proposed remained to be seen.
Their spokesmen said, however, that they had stood for principles which would be content to rest their case public on the conference President Wilson did not formal letter to the conference. Wishes were made known Lane through Secretary who went to the conference after a talk with the President. Mr. Wilson was not only of the events in the end, but also of the viewpoints of the conference conference leaders.

Secretary Lane told the that withdrawal of the la-had changed the nature of ference. He said he had missions by the President plain to the employers' group changed nature of the
and to say that the President's public group to reason to carry out the
as much as the burden of of industrial disputes fell on the public.

"I know that the people
United States are greater part of that people," said
"and as a body they will ward regardless of class the interests. The public be asked to make sugges-to give advice as to the policy of the country, the presented to the President."

May Increase Membership
After the conference was
Mr. Lane said it was pro-President would increase membership of the public group make that body more representative of the people.
Organized labor may be participate through delegates named by the President.
Representatives probably subcommittees to study on various phases of the situation, and then con-
